UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 9.—The twenty-second annual intercollegiate football game between Stanford and California was played on a muddy and more miserable field than any of its predecessors. From noon to noon the field was a sea of mud, in places the water standing upon it several inches deep.

Despite the rain of the morning and the threatening sky of the early afternoon the bleachers filled slowly, but certainly, and before the referee's whistle blew for the first time more than 25,000 people were in position to view the game.

ROOTERS ARE BUSY.

The rooters were in their places before even the standing room had started to fill. The first stunt of the afternoon was pulled off by the blue and gold with a series of bombs shot into the air from which fell first blue and gold ribbons and finally a monster California bear. The Stanford rooters before the game suddenly brought forth a quantity of red megaphones so placed in the middle of their rooting section as to form a giant "S."

California replied by bursting forth in similar manner with a monster bear outlined with blue and gold megaphones and ribbons. Stanford came back again with a shower of hundreds of pounds of red confetti that temporarily buried their rooting section from view. So the rival sections hurled their defiance at each other for the hour that preceded the referee's whistle.

The lineup follows:

GAMES STAND 3 TO 3.

The game today was the seventh Rugby contest and the deciding one, each university having won three.

California entered the contest a 10-to-9 favorite, the only reason apparent being the soggy field, Stanford being accustomed to playing on turf.

The Cardinal fifteen went into play with every man sound in wind and limb, with not a bruise or sprain among them. Eleven of the men have battled against California in the last three of the annual games, which California has taken straight, after losing the three previous to Stanford. In Henry Erb Stanford is credited with 12 1/2 the best football on the coast, while California has an inexperienced man (Evans) in this position.

IN PERFECT TRIM.

The California squad was in perfect trim.

At 2:25, five minutes before the game was scheduled to start, there was no sign of either team on the field. A dozen photographers waded about in the pools of mud. Most of them showed the forethought to provide themselves boots for the occasion and they needed them.

The Australian all-star Rugby 15 which has played on all but one game of its California season, were the guests of the local management.

Vocaliferous cheers from both rooter sections testified to instant approval of Australian sportsmanship. Utterances of illegality between the colleges seemed dissipated by rooter courtesy before the game began. Stanford cheered the California hant and California promptly returned the compliment.

GAME BEGINS.

California team entered the field from the south side at 2:58 and was immediately followed on the north side by the Stanford team. Captain Strom of California won the toss and took the kick-off. Stanford defending the south goal.

The referee's whistle blew sharply at 3 o'clock. Strom booted down the field.

For the first five minutes of play the ball wavered back and forth, with the advantage in numerous favors the one helping the Stanford backs with their kicks.

California's backs were unable to hold on the slippery field. On a knock-on Evans marked and booted into touch near the center of the field. An exchange of kicks took the ball to the center of the field, where it was fought back and forth in the mud, finally ending in a free kick for California by outside players. Stanford waded back to the center of the field, but the referee called a line in at Stanford's 25-yard line. The ball was scrummed at that point.

50-YARD RUN WINS.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Pennsylvania this afternoon won one of the most sensational football games ever seen on Franklin field when she defeated Michigan by the score of 27 to 20.

Coming from behind with the score 14 to 0 against her, the red and blue team scored a touchdown, only to have Michigan again pull away by scoring another 7 points.

Pennsylvania, on great line plunges, brought the score up to 20, but missed goal from touchdown. A few minutes later Marshall of Pennsylvania, catching a punt in midfield, made a sensational run of 50 yards, putting Pennsylvania in the lead and giving her the game.

Marshall was carried off the field on the shoulders of the excited Pennsylvania rooters.

WILSON'S COLLEGE WINS.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Princeton met and defeated the New York University here today in the next to last football game on the Princeton schedule. Tigers were in good condition and all the regulars were in the game.

Final score: Princeton 54, New York University 0.

YALE VICTOR.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 9.—The odds favored the blue in the annual gridiron battle on Yale field this afternoon between Yale and Brown, although the Yale coaches expected it would be a hard fought contest.

Two years ago the Brownians defeated Yale, but last year Yale had its revenge by winning with a comfortable margin.

Although Brown scored on Harvard this season, the Yale coaches were hopeful of keeping the blue goal line unbroken.

Final score: Yale 10, Brown 0.

Keep Umbrella in Hand; Storm Is to Continue

Oakland Rainfall Record:

Last 24 hours ..... .63
Season ..... 4.17
Same date last season .62

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—There is no prospect of the storm which is hovering over the northern part of California breaking until late tomorrow. There is, on the contrary, every likelihood of steady rain during the balance of the afternoon and tonight and the precipitation has been extremely heavy. The cause of the rainfall is a storm on the Oregon coast. It is a well marked storm, although a small one, and is moving southeast with high south winds and rain squalls. It will probably reach Los Angeles before night, although at noon it had extended little south of Stockton. Rain is general in the interior of California.

District Forecaster Meade could promise no fair weather until late tomorrow at the earliest. "We call this rain and not showers," declared Professor Meade. "The sun may peep through the clouds even for as long as an hour, but it is not likely. The storm is now traveling to the southward."

Wallace Not Scratched On Ticket, Says Lissner

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—With reference to reports that Lieutenant Governor Wallace, who was a candidate on the Republican-Progressive ticket for presidential elector, was scratched badly and that he ran behind the Wallace ticket, Lissner, who was named on the ticket, said today that returns received from county clerks on the first three electors named on the ticket show Wallace ran ahead and not behind the ticket. Returns from 19 counties sent in by county clerks give Wallace 162,308 votes, Wheeler 162,207 and Hancock 162,045. Wallace has 101 more votes than Wheeler and 263 more votes than Hancock. As compared with the first three electors on the Democratic ticket Wallace leads Griffin by 437, Del Valle by 584 and Lee by 708.

Suffragettes Try to Break Up Meeting

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A number of suffragettes last night made a demonstration in an effort to prevent John Burns, president of the local government board, from making a speech at Battersea. The police were called in and elected a dozen women and the meeting proceeded.

ROOSEVELT LEADS WILSON BY 743 IN CALIFORNIA RACE

With Defeat of Consolidation Amendment, Alameda County League, Disbands, but Is Also Ready to Renew the Conflict

Majority Against San Francisco Plot Will Probably Reach 60,000 When Final Vote All Over the State Is Counted; Caminetti Explains Reward

At 2:45 p. m. the State vote stood: Roosevelt, 281,563; Wilson, 280,820. Roosevelt's lead 743. Precincts missing 70.

THE headquarters of the Alameda County League on the fifth floor of the Syndicate building were vacated at noon today and the organization which brought about the defeat of the consolidation amendment was formally dissolved. Former Senator Frank W. Leavitt, who is generally credited with the success which the league achieved, let it be known that the organization would be revived should occasion ever demand, and that Oakland would always be on the alert to combat any renewal of activity on the part of Greater San Francisco agitators.

Additional figures on the State vote on the Sixth Amendment have boosted today the total majority against the measure to 56,982, with the possibility that the official figures will show a full 60,000 majority for Oakland. According to figures compiled by Ex-Senator Leavitt, the vote south of the Tehachapi furnished only one-half of the majority against the measure.

"In other words," said Leavitt, "the vote in Northern California, outside of San Francisco, was sufficient to more than offset the 47,000 majority which San Francisco gave to the measure. That shows just how much influence in Northern California San Francisco holds when Oakland is opposing her on a platform of justice."

Calls on Roosevelt to Renounce Ambitions

Former U. S. Senator Blair Wants Colonel to Aid Cause.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Former United States Senator Henry W. Blair of New Hampshire has made public a letter written by himself, as president of the Anti-Third Term League, to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

The letter requests Colonel Roosevelt "solemnly to renounce" his future candidacy for the presidency and to give his "powerful support" to the project to limit by constitutional amendment the tenure of the presidency to two terms of four years each.

Inclement Weather Delays Park Concert

The Spring Series of Programs to Commence February 1.

Due to the inclement weather there will be no concert in Lakeside park tomorrow by the Oakland municipal band. If the weather is good, however, there will be two more concerts before the end of the season, November 17 and 24. The spring series of park concerts will commence February 1.

Minority House Leader Files Expense Account

Congressman Mann Spent $2467 in Being Re-elected to Office.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—It cost Congressman James R. Mann of Illinois, minority leader of the House, $2467 to be elected last Tuesday, according to a report on his day book with the clerk of the House.

Gunmen Withdraw Pleas Of Not Guilty, Rumor

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Rumors persisted in and about the criminal courts building today that the four gunmen indicted for shooting down Herman Frank and top of the Broadway place of not guilty and enter pleas to murder in the second degree. Their counsel, denied, however, any such rumors. The five of whom had been chosen were contemplated and plotted yesterday, will be resumed Monday.

county gave Roosevelt 75,405 and Wilson 55,044, a plurality of 20,361 for Roosevelt.These figures were compiled late last night by 12 experts working under the direction of Chairman Cotton of the Democratic county central committee and other interested persons.They are unofficial, but probably the best obtainable until the completion of the canvass by the board of supervisors, to be begun Monday.

Fresno

FRESNO, Nov. 8.—County Clerk Barwell has figured out the vote for the three highest electors for the county, complete, as follows:For Roosevelt, Wallace, 8818; Wheeler, 8237; Baneroff, 8318.For Wilson—Griffin, 8890; Del Valle 8854; Lea, 8854.These are the first three on each ballot.

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—The vote
in Indiana this year shows a discrepancy of more than 70,000 from the election of 1908. The unofficial total this year is 649,377, while the official count four years ago showed 721,126.
This large difference is believed by party managers to be due mainly to the operation of the new registration law, which prevented much of the illegal voting that has characterized previous elections.

Kansas

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 8.—The Socialist vote in Kansas at Tuesday's election ran above 30,000, about 15,000 more than ever before, according to estimates made here tonight. Ben Wilson, a Socialist, was elected to the state legislature from Crawford county. Several county officers in Cherokee county are reported to be Socialists and in Rawlins county a Socialist county commissioner was named.

Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 8.—The vote in Utah on President in Utah which was practically completed this morning gives: Taft, 86,755; Wilson, 80,854; Roosevelt, 21,867; Debs, 4872.

Iowa

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 8.—Verbal returns from all but five counties of the state make certain the election of George W. Clarke, Republican, as governor of Iowa by a plurality of 12,000.DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 8.—According to complete returns from all counties of the state, the election of George W. Clarke, Republican, as governor of Iowa by a plurality of 12,000.

Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 8.—The best figures obtainable today indicate Senator Warren's re-election over J.
B. Kendrick, Democratic candidate.
Warren has, however, only two votes to spare and State Democratic Chairman Hopkins declares the official count will, in all likelihood, be required to determine the choice.With few precincts to hear from Warren has 39 votes to Kendrick and Kendrick's 12 in the Senate. This is considered a doubtful senator and a doubtful representative to the Senate.

Washington

SEATTLE, Nov. 8.—With 64 precincts missing, Lister, Democratic candidate for Governor, has 544 plurality over Hay, Republican. The remaining precincts are mostly small and in mountainous regions.The whole Republican state ticket except Governor was elected by substantial majorities. Mr. Josephine C. Preston, Republican candidate for superintendent of public instruction, who was at first thought to be defeated, won by a small plurality.The legislature is normally Republican in both houses, but many of the Republican members-elect have been identified with the progressive movement. Holdover members of House of Representatives.Based on a Democrat, has since joined the Socialist party. The Socialists have representatives from Mason county also.
Roosevelt's plurality over Wilson is 12, 000 over Taft 8,000.CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The unofficial count of the total vote for President
shows that Wilson obtained 170 votes, Roosevelt 93,185 and Taft 86,755. Wilson's plurality is 83,000 over Taft 8,000.LOOK FOR TEST OF WILSON'S CHARACTERLONDON, Nov. 8.—The Saturday Evening Standard, commenting on the election of Woodrow Wilson to the Presidency of the United States, says the test of Wilson's character and statesmanship

quarter, according to a special dispatch from Bucharest, Roumania.

ital are said to have been set on fire.
The banks and foreign embassies are troops, who are still obedient to discipline.

PRESS TOWARD CAPITAL

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—The Bulgarian third army has penetrated far into the forest region south of Derkos lake preparatory to the advance on Constantinople, while the first army is engaged against the main Turkish position east of Tchatalja. This position is not yet completely pierced, but the end of the Turkish resistance appears to be in sight. The raw Turkish troops, large numbers of which were rushed from Constantinople to meet the enemy's advance, are fighting strongly, but the exhausted veterans of the various battles are offering little serious resistance.

WAR THREATENS EUROPE

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Though the end of the Balkan war apparently is in sight, a greater danger than it threatens Europe today. The powers forming the triple alliance (Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy) and those composing the triple entente (France, Great Britain and Russia) are divided into two distinct camps as to the policy to be followed when peace between Turkey and the Balkan allies has been brought about.Absolutely ignoring the threat of Austria-Hungary the state will not tolerate the Serbian occupation of Albunia or of a port on the Adriatic sea. King Peter's armies continue their advance through the country they were practically forbidden to enter.

5500 FALL IN BATTLE

USKUP, Nov. 8.—The battle which resulted in the capture of the Turkish city of Philip (or Perlepe) by the Serbian troops was one of the severest that has been fought on this side of the Balkan peninsula. The Serbians lost 5500 men, including 1200 officers.
The Turkish troops suffered 6000 casualties.
The battlefield is still covered with corpses.Owing to the broken nature of the country and the poor railroad communication the members of the Red Cross Society are encountering the greatest difficulty in dealing with the wounded.The fall of the Turkish stronghold of Monastir, which is now being attacked by Serbian and Greek columns, is expected hourly.

ARTILLERY DUEL

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 8.—The Bulgarian army besieging Adrianople today captured Kartalepe and Papanstep, two of the outer lines of forts
defending the city, after a desperate artillery duel. The Bulgarian troops suffered a large number of casualties.

35,000 TURKS SURRENDER

ATHENS, Nov. 8.—The capitulation of the Turkish fortress of Saloniki, as well as that at Port Kataburun, was signed last night, according to a special dispatch received by King George of Greece. Twenty-five thousand Turkish troops surrendered.

PEACE NOT ASKED

SOFIA, Nov. 8.—Premier Guechoff of Bulgaria says there is no truth in the report abroad that the Bulgarian government has propositions without the mediation of the powers.

NEGOTIATIONS BEGIN

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—Important negotiations have commenced between Austria and Serbia on their afternoon. The negotiations are expected to be exceedingly difficult. The Austrian minister to Belgrade has been to Budapest, where the delegations are sitting in connection with these negotiations, and has now returned.CALLING UP RESERVES—TURKISH BUGLERS SOUNDING A CALL TO THE COLORS FROM THE ROOF TOPS.turned to Belgrade with fresh instructions.It is understood Austria will acquiesce in Serbia's territorial ac-grandizement only if Serbia will give guarantees more binding than the ordinary treaty of commerce that Serbia
will maintain permanent friendly political and economic relations with Austria. The nature of these guarantees is not explained, but they are supposed to be for a sort of customs union.According to statements from the Serbian premier Servia would regard a compulsory zollverein with Austria
as practically making Serbia a vassal
state and therefore not acceptable.

FORTS ATTACKED

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—The Bulgarians are now attacking with all their strength the remaining Turkish positions about Tchatalja and the fall of these vital Turkish defenses in front of Constantinople is only a matter of hours, according to today's dispatches
from the Reichspost's correspondent.

ALLIES TO UNITE IN ATTACK

SOFIA, Nov. 8.—News of the retreat of the Turkish army on Constantinople is expected hourly.
The feeling at Bulgarian headquarters favors the Bulgarian army marching into Constantinople accompanied by the Serbian operating in Thrace and Greek forces which will land in the gulf of Xeros.The Serbian and Greek crown princes probably will be present and the cross will be carried in triumph into the mosque of St. Sophia.Premier Guechoff, in a newspaper interview, says the allies have agreed on the settlement of territorial questions, but their policy after the liberation of Macedonia has not yet been decided in detail. Common action between the allies, he declares, will not come with the war and Europe may count upon seeing a most cordial union between the states. He insists that the allies will submit to no coercion from the powers.

SCENES OF HORROR

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—Phul scenes continue to be witnessed daily with the arrival of trainloads of wounded from the front. It is significant that most of these men are slightly injured, which would indicate that the badly wounded have small chance of being picked up, almost without exception, the wounded are on the verge of collapse from exhaustion.Many have been without attention for days and a majority of them without food or water for 24 hours.
The hospitals are overcrowded and symptoms resembling cholera have appeared. Those suspected of having the disease are isolated in a special shed.
If the dread scourge should come to Constantinople, where already there is so much distress and suffering among the wounded and refugees, the consequences are too horrible to contemplate.It is impossible to estimate the number of refugees in the capital. There are many stories of men, women and children crowded into the suburbs villages and districts are striving as much as possible to keep together. All refugees seem resigned to their fate
and anxious to go to Asia Minor.

ROMANIA UNDER ARMS

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A Times dispatch from Bucharest says the Roumanian government has set aside further large sums for the purchase of war material. It intends fully to equip the army to its nominal strength of 400, 000 men.

A dispatch to the Daily News from Constantinople sent by wireless from the steamer Principessa Maria says:"As a result of the crash of the Ottoman world, the most pathetic figure probably is Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, an old, bent man, striving to restore order from the chaos that was none of his making. He alone appears to retain a vestige of authority. Even he, when I saw him between two sittings of the council yesterday, had no idea of how or in what shape Turkey

would come out of the debacle."The anxiety that prevails concerns the interregnum that would elapse between the transfer of the government to Brusa, Asiatic Turkey, and the entry of the Bulgarians into Constantinople, for no one supposes they will make peace anywhere else.

TO PROTECT EUROPEANS

It is chiefly for this emergency that preparations have been made to protect Europeans. Their transport to steamers hired for their convenience would be effected under cover of strong landing parties from the warships and boats with machine guns."Many of the warships' boats probably would have to be used also for the transportation of Europeans, and the government will commandeer all available boats in the harbor for the removal of the Turks and their property to Asia.""The anxiety, though greatly lessened since the arrival of the warships, is in no wise ended. It is felt by those who have been here longest that the real crisis is to come. Nobody believes a government that failed to feed its soldiers and civilians from the capital will succeed in protecting the city. The absolute incompetency and laziness of a majority of the officials and the stupidity of the rest are the keynote of the end of the Ottoman empire in Europe."The news quotes a German officer with the Turks as declaring that the war was not won by rifles, but by the overwhelming superiority of the field guns employed by Bulgaria.

PREACH HOLY WAR

A dismal picture of the Turkish situation at Tchatalja is sent from the Turkish position by a correspondent of the Daily Chronicle under date of Thursday. He says the line is held largely by raw recruits hastily mustered from the capital."They are making frantic efforts to put the defense in order against the Bulgarian advance," says the correspondent. "Attempts are being made to weld together the disintegrated stomachs of what was once an army.""Hodjas of Stamboul, with prophets and the sacred green flag, are attempting to revive the spirits of the troops and restore Turkish military prestige
by preaching a holy war. They are entreating the religious chiefs to rise up and exterminate the infidel invaders.
The soldiers make answer, 'First give us bread.'"The last train from Tcherik was so packed with troops and refugees that many persons suffocated in the cars."

TO DIE IN PAYNE

PARIS, Nov. 8.—"Neither I nor the allies would ever abandon Constantinople. My sovereign will await death in his palace; I in my office." Thus Kiamil Pasha, grand vizier of Turkey, has addressed the ambassadors of the powers.Kiamil Pasha informed the ambassadors in Constantinople that he would maintain order there until the end, according to a dispatch to the Matin today. If, however, the Turkish capital should be occupied by the invaders,
the grand vizier declares that he could not be responsible for what the expatriation of the population might lead to. Anything that might happen

Noradun Pasha, Turkish minister for foreign affairs, is directing affairs with singular tenacity and devotion in spite of his 85 years. He appears to be infusing new life into the population of the Turkish capital.
For 11 days he has not left his office.
He eats there and sleeps there, throwing himself in the early hours of the morning upon a military bed in order to snatch a few hours' repose.General Mahmoud Pasha was sent by Nazim Pasha, the commander-in-chief, to notify the grand vizier that the Turkish army would not accept either mediation or intervention. According to a special dispatch to the Journal from Constantinople, the commander-in-chief declared that if the government did not heed the wishes of the army, the soldiers would come to Constantinople and cannonade the offices to prevent the dismemberment of the empire.

REVOLUTION THREATENS

The leaders of the committee of the Union and Progress Association informed the grand vizier that there would be a terrible revolution unless the Turkish army continued to fight to the last ditch. As a result of this and the attitude of the army, it is understood, Kiamil Pasha decided to abandon the idea of asking the powers to intervene.The officers who were sent into retirement from the Turkish army in 1907 for political reasons are being reinstated, according to a dispatch from Constantinople to the Echo de Paris. They will do their utmost to lick into shape the fresh troops being dragged into Nazim Pasha's army, which is being reorganized behind the lines at Tchatalja.

BLAMES YOUNG TURKS

Ghazi Ahmet Mukhtar Pasha, the veteran victor of Kars in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 and a former grand vizier, explained the Turkish defeats as follows:"The young Turks have ruined our army. Formerly part of the officers came from the ranks and the reminder from the military schools.
The young Turks did not like that the army should be led by men who found other situations for the men who had risen from the ranks and replacing them by youngsters from the military academy. During three years about 1800 joined in this way, but all of them were too young and inexperienced.""Our battalions of infantry, which are 800 strong, had only seven officers each at the outbreak of the war,
whereas in the past they had always 16 or 17. What could you expect of your brave soldiers to do without officers and without food for days?
There was no commissariat department?
They could do only one thing. They fled."

TURKS POOR SHOTS

An interview with a Bulgarian soldier who took part in the battle of Lule-Burgas is published in the Matin.
"What struck us most," this soldier said, "was the harmlessness of the Turkish shot. They were so far from high over our heads, as if the Turkish soldiers were not aiming, but shooting with their heads turned. Our company comprised 190 men. During the three days' battle we were engaged in a fight lasting eight hours and only two of our men were wounded. One in the thigh and the other in the ankle. We were often only 200 yards from the enemy. On the other hand, the effect of our fire was terrible.
Our men insisted on jumping up to see the result of each volley, much to the disgust of our officers, who often lost their tempers in trying to induce the men to obey their order to keep covered."

WHAT ABOUT TREATIES?

"This is too late for irony," said Noradun Pasha, Turkish foreign minister, today. "If it was, I would passer the word to the Turkish press and print in big type in every Turkish newspaper the solemn declaration made three weeks ago by the European powers that they would not permit the seizure of Turkish territory. At the same time I would publish the text of the treaties concluded during the past century by the nations of Europe guaranteeing the integrity of the Ottoman empire."

TURKS CLAIM DEFEAT

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—The Turkish garrison of Adrianople claims to have inflicted a severe defeat on the Bulgarians in a two days' battle on the west front of the fortress in the vicinity of Malaz.An official report has been received from the civil governor of Adrianople, that on the morning of November 7
at 10 o'clock on the morning of November 7
and continued without cessation 11 hours. After a half hour, fighting was renewed with vigor and lasted all night and the whole of the next day until midnight of November 8.The Turkish report says the Turkish troops attacked with fixed bayonets
and compelled the Bulgarians to retreat in disorder, leaving several hundred rifles and a quantity of ammunition on the field.All along the western front, the report continues, the Turkish guns have silenced the Bulgarian batteries, while on the southern front the Bulgarians, after sustaining heavy losses near Mt.Kartal, were driven to the west of that hill.The report concludes:
"This bloody battle, lasting 36 hours,
will go down as one of the most brilliant feats of arms in Ottoman history."

BALKAN STATES IN HARMONY

BELGRADE, Nov. 8.—"The league of Balkan nations is utterly averse to making Albania an autonomous state, as desired by Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy," said Premier Pavitch of Serbia today.The premier laid emphasis on the fact that the allied Balkan states
were working in harmony on all questions. He declared they demanded the complete disappearance of the sovereignty of the Sultan from European Turkey and the division of the Turkish territory among the victorious nations belonging to the Balkan league.
The partition of Turkish territory, he said, had already been arranged along broad lines by the allies, the only questions left open for discussion being those relating to the destiny of Constantinople, Saloniki and the Dardanelles.The fate of Constantinople and the Dardanelles, said the premier, would be left to the decision of the European powers. As for Saloniki, however, the Balkan allies had not yet reached an agreement as to who was to have it.

OAKLAND KNIGHTS GIVEN SUPPORT BY OTHER LODGES

DANIEL T. REYNOLDS.

Co-operating for the success of the big theater party which will be given by the Oakland Knights, No. 753, Knights of Columbus, next Monday evening, in the Orpheum theater, are many prominent Knights of Berkeley, Alameda and other east bay cities. With the view of realizing a substantial sum to add to the building fund of the organization, no pains have been spared for the success of the affair, and it is expected that a banner crowd will be in attendance.

Among those to occupy boxes on the benefit night are the newly-elected officers of the council, who will be seated with appropriate services at the headquarters of the organization, Tenth and Oak streets, Wednesday night. Matthew R. Bronner has been selected as Grand Knight for the coming year, and Joseph A. Kennedy as Deputy Grand Knight.

The sale of tickets for the benefit has been heavy. In addition to the work done by the Oakland Knights and their friends, the Berkeley and Alameda Knights have also assisted, swelling the receipts considerably. A committee has been chosen to handle this work. A reception committee has been chosen.

Tickets can still be secured from Daniel T. Reynolds, chairman of the committee of arrangements. Others on the committee are: Manuel A. Silva, Leo L. Doonan, James P. Martin, Thomas J. Clancy, Dr. J. P. Maher, Andrew J. Flynn, Philip J. Moeckel, James H. Doonan, Chas. J. Donovan and J. J. Cunningham.

The benefit party will be one of a series of events to be given during the winter and if sufficient money is secured work will begin early next year on the new home of the council on the site at Tenth and Oak streets.

SEALERS PLAN TO FLY GERMAN FLAG

Would Evade Treaty Recently Agreed Upon at Washington.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 9.—The owners of the Victoria sealing schooners are threatening to put their vessels under the German flag, and thus evade the treaty recently signed at Washington, prohibiting pelagic sealing in the North Pacific for a period of 15 years.

The reason alleged for the threatened action is that the government has apparently omitted to forward the compensation which it was expected would be paid for the loss of their industry.

The signatories to the treaty were those of Russia, Japan, Great Britain and the United States. By putting two local sealers, of which there are a fleet of forty, under the German flag, it is claimed they could operate from this port.

ILL PASO, Texas, Nov. 9.—Frank Walter, said to be a Washington, D. C., millionaire, arrived here today after a race across the continent just in time to attend the deathbed of his son, Corporal Walter, of the Thirtieth Cavalry.

Arriving in his private car, Walter hurried to Fort Bliss, and asked at the post hospital to see Corporal John D. Walter, aged 25, ill of typhoid fever.

The Eastern banker entered the ward and looked at the young soldier's cot, and the two talked a short time before the financier's son breathed his last.

"Bring the body to my car," said Walter. "I will have it interred at our old home in Staunton, Va. Corporal Walter is my son."

The father, with the body of his son, left on a late train yesterday.

NEED MONEY FOR WAR SUFFERERS

Miss Mabel T. Boardman Makes Final Appeal for Funds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—More money is needed by the American Red Cross for the Balkan war sufferers, says Miss Mabel T. Boardman, in charge of the work. The funds sent by the American Red Cross, and given by Americans in Constantinople, have been exhausted in treating the thousands of sick and wounded.

At the request of Miss Boardman, the State Department today called the American ministers in the following countries engaged in the war to gather estimates of the number of sick and wounded soldiers of each nationality who need attention. The desire is to divide the funds sent by the American Red Cross, so that it will be given according to the needs of the sufferers.

MRS. CAROLAN PLANS $1,000,000 MANSION

HILLSBOROUGH, Nov. 9.—Whether Mrs. Francis J. Carolan will purchase 600 acres of land from the Boyle Estate Company, on which she has a month's option, will depend on the verdict of the famous French landscape gardener, Duchesne. Last Tuesday Mrs. Carolan, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Poet, left for the east. It was learned today that the purpose of her trip is to meet Duchesne and bring him to her estate near this city for his expert advice.

Mrs. Carolan recently completed the purchase of 564 acres of wooded land at a price said to be between $500 and $750 an acre, from the Black Mountain Land and Water Company. This property adjoins the country estate of William H. Crocker of San Francisco.

In her plans to build a million-dollar villa near Hillsborough, of a French style of architecture—the rival of anything in the millionaire's colony—Mrs. Carolan may need the additional 500 acres for the completion of her scheme of parking. Duchesne will decide whether the great plot is necessary for the scheme.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN HAS $192,000 POLICIES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 9.—Cornelius Brierly, a prominent business man of Homestead, who was killed by a railroad train Wednesday night at Claysville, carried $192,000 worth of life insurance, payable to his wife and to his parents.

As nearly all of this amount was taken out a month or two prior to his death, the insurance companies holding policies will, it is learned, make the usual investigation to determine how he came to his death.

Brierly met his death other than that he was struck by the Parkersburg express of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Claysville. Brierly had a $50,000 policy in his clothing when he was picked up.

Miss Storie, who sued for $100,000, based her action partly on breach-of-promise grounds and partly on a claim for support of a child now 2 years old, of which Hogan denied in court that he was the father. Hogan is wealthy.

The play was arranged by Emil Fritsch, scenic effects by Warren R. Sawyer, electrical effects by Frank J. and M. O. Brier, and the special music written by E. D. Crandall. A synopsis of the play follows:

"The old witch, alone in the woods, is met by the young Irishman, Dennis Malone, on his way to his father's wake. She tells Dennis the story of her life and that as a young girl she had loved his father, but was turned aside for a wealthy young woman who became Dennis' mother.

"The news of the death of Patrick Malone, whom she has never ceased to love, brings the Witch to the realization that there is nothing more in life for her, that she is an utter outcast and growing old. She seeks out his grave in the churchyard and there ends her life, that her spirit may enter the afterworld with that of her youthful lover.

"On reaching the Infernal Regions she finds Patrick Malone on trial for his misdeeds and his utter lack of interpretation of love. The Witch, in this endeavor, love, and enters just in time to save him from the brimstone fire by sacrificing herself. The power of his majesty, the Devil, is overthrown by the presence of love and sacrifice which the old Witch brings to the trial. This enduring love the Infernal Regions are transformed into a Paradise."

WIFE DISLIKED LIFE IN KITCHEN

Her Culinary Aversion Causes Husband to Seek a Divorce.

Cyrus Cratigny took home a live chicken one evening, to be exact, on August 28 last, and asked his wife to cook it.

"She just simply looked at me wild and said 'Good Lord, I never saw such a man as you are; you never know when to make me stop working.'"

Next morning he did not have any better luck, he testified in obtaining an interlocutory decree of divorce today from Sarah Alvidah, for, he continued, she said that she was getting "garned" tired of getting up early and getting his meals.

Louisa Aires Ward and John Ward parted good friend in June, 1909, at which time the husband said that he would not return, according to testimony upon which Mrs. Ward won an interlocutory decree today. Drinking on his part was what caused trouble in the home and Mrs. Ward said that while she could not stop him from going she did not care very much.

Nunzia R. Howard was granted a final decree from Harry P. Howard on the grounds of desertion and Mary A. Rolfe obtained a similar decree from Ernest M. Rolfe for cruelty.

Mrs. Ida Francis Harris Willard found it necessary to appeal to the Mayor of Victoria for the payment of her rent after John H. F. Willard left her their four children in Canada under the terms of a divorce decree. Mrs. Willard's children were returned with another woman with whom he lived under the same roof with his family. The house was divided architecturally as well as otherwise, she said.

Camozzi plainly showed his triumph by puffing a big cigar while Carlton trundled through the muddy streets. The pair had adorned their hats with large placards bearing the names of their respective champions and advertised their progress through Fruitvale by ringing a large bell.

KNOCKED DOWN BY THIEF AND ROBBED

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Michael McQuade, 233 Randall street, met a highwayman at Third and Silver streets this morning and was beaten and robbed of his valuables. The footpad accosted him suddenly as he was rounding a corner, struck him on the head and dragged him into an alley. He then ransacked his pockets, taking $5 and a watch.

ROWELL TELLS HISTORY OF BOOK-MAKING ART

Librarian of State University Speaks at Home Club Exhibit

At the recent book exhibition of the Home Club, Joseph C. Rowell, librarian of the University of California, made the following remarks:

"Twenty-eight years ago private and public collections were ransacked for the first exhibition in this part of California to illustrate the history of the printed book. Manuscripts, block books, incunabula, large and beautiful examples were displayed for the decoration of great numbers who examined these mute symbols of human progress. For without books there could have been no rapid advance in civilization; we might still be a nation of basket-weavers. Now again owners of similar precious volumes have taken them from among their old treasures and generously permit us to share in the delight of temporary ownership.

"And we regard them with pardonable pride, for no surer indication of the character of a community is found than in the number and particularly the quality of the books it possesses.

"Time was when there were no books. The representative of the vast and diversified literature of modern times was the bard wandering among pastoral, mobile peoples, intoning his epic, hymn, or song, that (freshest youth, who lay under an ancient plane tree on the cliff, lulled unconscious by the lightly lapping wave of the Aegean far below, when some honey-laden bee, flying straight from Hymettus, kissed his lip, and he awoke and sang. Here, perchance, was born the lyric.

"ART OF WRITING. "But Cadmus, or his prototype, bestowed on man the art of writing, and recorded history began with Egyptian hieroglyphs and the arrow-pointed inscriptions of Assyria, with inscribed skins of beasts, the palm leaves of India, and still later the fragile papyrus. And then there gradually developed bodies of literature and collectors of books and libraries.

"Yet, oh so slowly! Solomon said: 'Of the making of books there is no end; but, right is the interpretation referred to not the number of books.

DR. AKED WOULD BE U. S. CITIZEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Dr. Charles Frederick Aked, pastor of the First Congregational Church, residing at 2135 Sacramento street, today applied to the Superior Court for admission to citizenship in the United States.

Dr. Aked was born in Nottingham, England, where he was born August 27, 1864.

According to his application he came to the United States, arriving in New York, April 17, 1907, and on July 5 following applied to the United States Circuit Court at New York and obtained his first papers.

The five years' residence, under his declaration of intention, expired last July, but, as naturalization could not be obtained speedily enough to permit him to register for the late election, he applied to the court to obtain his second papers until today.

J. H. Morse, 1631 Bush street, and A. C. Crandall, 2115 Polk street, are subscribers to the petition, and will certify that, of their personal knowledge, Dr. Aked has resided in the United States since April 17, 1907.

Before the petition will be properly before the court it will be necessary for Dr. Aked to obtain depositions from the United States Circuit Court at New York and a half year's residence. When these have been obtained his application will be placed upon the calendar before Judge J. J. Van Nostrand and heard upon oral testimony and the depositions.

CHANCE GOES TO CINCINNATI TEAM

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Frank Chance, former manager of the Chicago National team, was released today on a waiver for $1500. It was announced here. ## SALOON CAUSES RACE OUTBREAK

Two Mexicans Killed in Texas Town; Patrol on the Streets.

FORT STOCKTON, Tex., Nov. 9.—The fact that this town has the only saloon in a radius of nearly a hundred miles has caused a Mexican-American race outbreak. Two Mexicans were killed and three wounded last night and today. All Americans are armed, with a patrol watching all the streets.

A band of Mexicans disarmed Constable Tom Scott last night and were shooting at him when Sheriff Enker came upon the scene and opened fire with a pistol. When the "cuckoo" cleared away Francisco Salinas and Francisco Gonzales were dead and six others were wounded.

The trouble was the outcome of a week's dividing and gambling debauch by a squad of Mexican railroad laborers who had been working in prohibition territory for several months. It is planned to keep the Mexican railroad laborers from entering the town tonight.

Rangers for El Paso are expected to arrive tomorrow.

PROPERTY OWNERS' CLUB HAS MEETING

Central District Improvers' Organization Committees Are Named.

The Central District Property Owners' Club held its special meeting at the Hotel Metropole last evening. President Kilbourne appointed several committees on plans for the betterment of the district.

San Francisco Society

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. George Pope left on today's Overland for New York. Their stay in the East will be a short one, as they intend returning to San Francisco about December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cranston Chamberlain are honeymooning at Miramar. They plan to return to San Francisco early in December and will be at the Fairmont until after the holidays, when they will journey East for a month or two. Mrs. Chamberlain was Miss Innes Keeney, one of the brides of the week.

One of the prettiest affairs of the season was the dance given by Miss Sylvia Smith in her home on Jackson street. Many lovely favors were given as collection souvenirs. Everyone had a most glorious time, as the hostess had the dances arranged by matching flowers and little trinkets, so that there was no choice on either side. Dancing was kept up until the early morning hours.

"The Three Graces," Mrs. Arthur Chesbrough, Mrs. Athol McLean and Miss Mary Newman, for such have the dashing daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Mayo Newhall been spoken of since they made their debut a few years ago, were greatly missed last evening at the bachelors and bachelorettes' ball.

The first large debutante function of the season was given at the Palace Hotel on Thursday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. M. Leon gave a ball to formally introduce their daughter, Mabel, to the social world. The guests included all the younger members of the fashionable world, and the occasion created quite a flurry in the realm of the fashionable modiste, as many new gowns were worn for the affair.

Judge and Mrs. James Cooper and their daughter, Miss Ethel Cooper, who have spent the summer touring Europe, have returned to San Francisco and are luxuriantly quartered at the St. Regis in Clay street in the handsome apartment formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Downey, who intend spending the greater part of the winter in New York City.

Miss Elizabeth Goodwin left for New York, where she expects to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Philip Aronson.

Pretty Miss Anne Peters caught the bride's bouquet at the Chamberlain-Keeeney wedding Wednesday evening and everyone is wondering if the time-honored superstition will prove correct.

James Findley will be the honored guest at a handsomely appointed luncheon General and Mrs. William B. Dougherty are giving today at the home in Fruitvale.

One of the enjoyable bridge parties of the week was that on Thursday afternoon at which Miss Hazel Stetson entertained in her home on Jones street. Later in the afternoon an additional number of guests dropped in for tea.

Mrs. A. M. Talbot and her attractive daughter, Miss Amy Talbot, have been apartmenting at the Granada for the winter months. The Talbots have spent the past half dozen winters in Washington, D. C., and San Francisco and will be delighted to know that this year they have postponed their departure until spring.

And at a recent entertainment, Miss L. J. Talbot and her daughter, Miss Amy Talbot, have been apartmenting at the Granada for the winter months. Second Judgment Is Passed on Escaped Prisoner From Jail.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Andrew Mason, alias Frank Hillman, who twelve years ago was started on his way to Folsom penitentiary for robbery, will now have to serve his term as the result of a second judgment passed upon him by Superior Judge Lawson this morning. He made good his escape and was not seen again until two months ago when he was recognized at the county jail by Corporal McQuade, head of the identification bureau. ## ATTORNEY FINED $5 FOR 'MASHING'

17-Year-Old Girl Says That Lawyer Turned Her Around and Winked at Her.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—John W. Richey, an attorney with offices at 311 Unity building, was fined $5 and costs by Municipal Judge Wells in the South Clark street court on a charge of "mashing" Ebba Peterson, 17 years old, 1440 North Arden avenue, was the complainant.

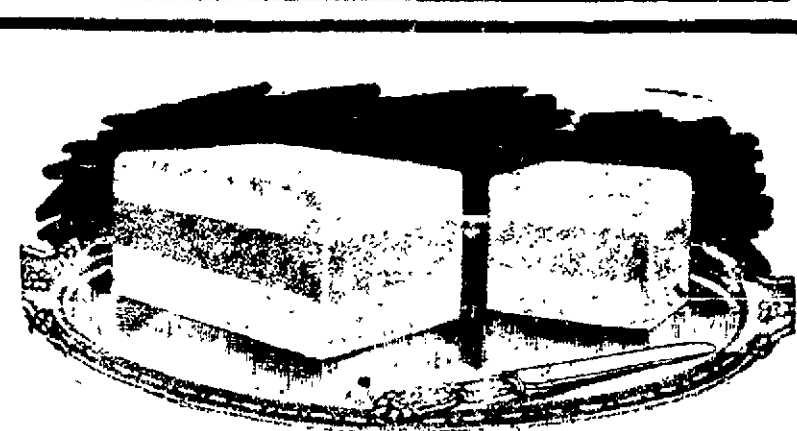

"A week ago Monday," she said, "I was walking in Lake street, near Dearborn, when this man caught me by the arm, turned me around and winked at me."

The girl's testimony was corroborated by Holloman L. F. Connell of the Fifth street station. Mr. Richey denied the charge.

"I was rounding the corner with a bunch of books," he testified. "I may have brushed into the girl, but if I did it was accidental."

Policeman Connell testified that when he took the lawyer to the station the latter made an explanation that he thought he knew the girl.

Arguments on a motion for a new trial were set for November 8. Richey said he will consider appealing the case if the decision then is unfavorable.

Lehnhardt's College Dessert—

It has been the custom of folks around the bay to entertain their friends on the day after the big game with a college dinner. College colors, miniature footballs, etc., are used as table decorations and the dinner takes on every possible college aspect.

We have always furnished the desserts for such occasions by making an especially fine brick of ice cream, and this year shall be no exception.

One layer will be Maple Ice Cream, made of real maple sugar, which we secure in large quantities direct from the New England States. Maple sugar makes a most delectable ice cream and is a prime favorite with all of our customers.

STEAMER WINS A BONUS OF $10,500

Turkistan Beats Stanhope Into Port With Date Cargo.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Turkistan, from Port Said to New York, with 5,000,000 pounds Persian dates in her hold, beat into port today the steamer Stanhope, also of Port Said, with 1,000,000 pounds of dates, and thereby won a bonus of $500 for her crew and $5000 for her consignees. At the time the Stanhope reaches New York—she had not been reported at noon—dealers in dates will be well supplied and the price will have fallen from 4 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents a pound.

The Turkistan made her winning trip despite a fire in her coal bunkers that burned for twelve days before it was controlled.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The armored cruisers Tennessee and Montana will get to sea Monday from Philadelphia navy yard for their mission to protect Americans in Turkey. It was said at the Navy Department today. All details of the expedition are in the hands of Admiral Kuleth who will command the vessels.

British Ambassador Bryce called upon President Taft at the White House today and it is presumed the Balkan situation was discussed. It is probable if American life becomes imperiled at Constantinople or elsewhere in Turkey before the arrival of the American vessels, action would be afforded American citizens toward British vessels now heading toward Constantinople.

The American Red Cross is not planning to send relief supplies to the east of war by the American vessels, but in sending all funds forwarded to it by Americans for use in any country designated.

Dispatches from Constantinople to the Red Cross today say there are urgent wants in that city and that the organization is sorely in need of funds.

A Wrong to Be Righted.

The election has not clarified the political situation in this State so far as the Republican party is concerned. An anomalous condition exists that is both perplexing and artificial.

At present the Progressives are in control of the machinery of the Republican organization, and in the campaign just closed usurped the Republican party name for the candidates of another party. Progressives offered themselves as Republican candidates for the Legislature and then turned round and nominated Progressive electors on the Republican ticket, thus depriving the Republicans who remained loyal to their party of all opportunity to vote in the election as Republicans. If they voted for the Republican national ticket they did so as independents. The candidates designated as Republicans on the official ballot were hostile to the Republican party and its principles.

How is the Republican party to be extricated from this false position? Will the Progressives persist in controlling the Republican organization and preventing the Republicans from using their party name in future? This question is both pertinent and pregnant because the Progressives are registered almost to a man as Republicans. In the primaries they wear the party cloak of their adversaries. By this subterfuge, the Republicans are prevented from taking control of the machinery of their own party and operating politically under their party name.

How long is this to continue? How long do the Progressives propose to keep up the pretense that they are members of the Republican party and entitled to participate in its deliberations? Will they continue to play a dual role which defeats all attempts to restore the Republican organization to its friends? On this depends much.

In the primaries to be held two years hence the Progressives now registered as Republicans can vote as Republicans. They are in a position to play the same trick they played when Roosevelt electors were nominated on the Republican ticket. Will they try it again after the rebuke they have received or will they register under their proper party designation and go into the fight without disguise and without false pretense?

But for the curious primary law enacted by the Progressives, it would be easy for the Republicans to clean house and resume the direction of their party affairs. It is this law that binds them to the chariot of their enemies and deprives them of the right to use the Republican party name. In the last campaign they could not organize and act as Republicans, could not name campaign committees denominated as Republican. County committees are at present elected by primary vote, and if the Progressives continue to register and vote in the primaries as Republicans, it will be well-nigh impossible for the real Republicans to effect any coherent party organization in this State. Their Progressive enemies will continue to sit at their council boards and war from the inside against the party while pretending to be members of it.

The integrity of party organization is at stake in this crisis. Other parties may be made the victims of the same sort of malpractice that the Republican party is suffering from at present. Laws which permit such a gross perversion of the franchise cannot long stand. The people will not sanction the stifling of free political action by the methods recently adopted—methods which have transferred the Republican party machinery to the control of adherents of an opposing party, who are using that machinery to prevent legitimate action under the Republican party name.

Apparently the Turk is to be recalled from Europe.

The fetid Bulletin rails at Los Angeles for voting against the annexation amendment. Los Angeles had no interest in dismembering counties for the benefit of San Francisco. Still less was she interested in artificially increasing San Francisco's population, especially as one of the arguments for annexation employed in this section of California was that it would prevent Los Angeles from outgrowing San Francisco. While San Francisco was posing as an ally to the Angelinos she was really trying to hand them a lemon. Because they did not fall for the bunk, the Bulletin voids its abuse on them.

"The wise custom that limits the President to two terms" will not be broken yet. By a majority of several millions, the American people have voted to let the precedent stand. Let us hope that it will continue to stand until an amendment to the constitution makes third terms impossible.

Irrigation Development May Now Proceed.

The adoption of the irrigation bond amendment is creditable to the good judgment and sense of the voters. It is not merely an act of justice, it is something that will be of great benefit to the State, especially the agricultural industry. Irrigation development, upon which our agricultural prosperity is largely dependent, was being retarded by the legal discrimination against bonds issued by irrigation districts. Under the law as it stood before the adoption of the amendment irrigation district bonds were not legal security for public money deposited in banks. This disability was aggravated by the attitude of the Superintendent of Banking, who refused to recognize irrigation bonds as a legal investment for bank reserves. Hence irrigation bonds were hard to sell and depressed in value. As the law forbids their sale at less than face value, it was next to impossible to finance an irrigation district. The adoption of the amendment has removed the handicap to progress, and the agricultural interests of the State have been freed from an incubus that was holding back development in many sections. Superintendent Williams will now have no further excuse for discriminating against the bonds of irrigation districts.

It appears that in Los Angeles some thousands of Progressive voters scratched the name of Lieutenant-Governor Wallace for voting for Presidential electors. They did this to express their approval of the commutation of sentence he issued in the case of George Fugere, the beast who murdered his young wife because she refused to submit to the embraces of his drunken friend. Probably many others voted against all the Roosevelt electors as an expression of their disgust for Wallace's action in setting aside the judgment of the court in favor of a wretch without a redeeming quality. Even if the other Progressive electors should go through, Wallace will be defeated as a mark of public disfavor. The Lieutenant-Governor is thus informed that the work of human kindness should not be allowed to flow exclusively to the benefit of criminals.

WHAT PUZZLES THE JANITOR

A Short and Bloody War.

It is just thirty days since the beginning of the Balkan war. Just one month ago Montenegro declared war against Turkey and began hostilities by crossing the frontier with all the armed force at their command. Four days later, Serbia and Bulgaria also declared war and set their columns in motion for aggressive action.

Since then events have moved with remarkable rapidity. In no previous war were so many bloody battles fought in such rapid succession and in such a brief space of time. A winter campaign in a mountainous country unprovided with roads or other transportation facilities is always accompanied by hardship and privation, but notwithstanding the rains and the bad roads the allies have kept marching and fighting. A finer display of fighting spirit was not made during the Russo-Japan war, which was a marvel of endurance and celerity of movement.

The contest now drawing to a close will probably be the shortest as well as the most momentous war of modern times. Napoleon overran Prussia in five weeks, but he only fought two battles, both on the same day, in breaking the military power of the Prussian monarchy. The war between Austria and Prussia in 1866 lasted only seven weeks, and the war of France and Italy against Austria in 1859 was ended in a single campaign. The war of Prussia and Austria against Denmark in 1864 was short, but the little Danish kingdom was so greatly outnumbered that resistance was hopeless from the start.

This war is different. The physical obstacles to rapid movement, to say nothing of armed resistance, are so great that it seems scarcely possible that the allies have marched so far and fought so many battles. Soldiers must have stout hearts and sound legs to perform such prodigies of valor and endurance.

In the space of eighteen days the Greek army has marched over 150 miles, fought half a dozen pitched battles, stormed several fortresses and captured Salonica, the second city in European Turkey. The Serbs have done equally as well. But the Bulgarian advance on Constantinople is only comparable to the bloody advance of the Japanese on Port Arthur. It is one of the bloodiest pages in military history. It is proof that the fighting spirit is as strong in the human breast as it ever was.

Apparently the Bulgars did not stop fighting long enough to read the election returns. They are so busy with the primary they are holding with the Turks that they can think of nothing else.

A Victory Without Laurels.

Apparently the Roosevelt electors will pull through by a scanty plurality, but the victory is barren of honor and futile of result. It wears the unmistakable complexion of defeat. This meager plurality shows how frail is the reed that sustains the machine in this State and how easily it can be broken. The figures carry a moral and an admonition that cannot escape the attention of the men who have become so intoxicated with power that they conceived the people of this State would stand for anything. But the returns have shaken their arrogant conceit and sent a chill of apprehension down their backs. It is immaterial who gets the electoral vote of California since it cannot change or even affect the result of the national election, but the fact that it was won with such a loss of prestige is significant. It is all the more significant because it is patent to all men that certain and creditable victory was so nearly thrown away by perpetrating a trick that was as needless as it was disreputable. The people dealt a staggering blow to fraud and false pretense. The moral effect is entirely wholesome, not less so because the Roosevelt electors have finally scratched out by a bare plurality.

Our Bull Moose contemporaries are essaying the difficult feat of crowing while they eat crow. The effect is lugubrious but funny.

Where is the man who said that the Presidential election was likely to be thrown into the House?

Twenty Years Ago Today

The loss of the Wyoming legislature gives the Democrats a majority of one in the United States Senate.

The People's party do not know exactly where they are at. They will have a small representation in the House, but in the Senate they will almost certainly control the balance of power, so that their attitude on party questions is a source of much solicitude.

Cleveland has secured twenty-three and one-half states as indicated so far by the returns out of the forty-four states in the union. Cleveland has carried California, Illinois and Wisconsin, which went against him in 1896.

A special meeting of the Alameda World's Fair Association was held today, Colonel F. H. Meyers presiding. The resignation of Miss Alice Alden as assistant secretary was accepted. W. H. O'Brien was elected manager.

Ladies of the Fabiola Association collected a neat sum for charity on Tuesday by placing collection boxes in the election booths.

John Holland, who left Berkeley to engage in the hotel business in San Francisco, has returned after a year's absence.

NOW IT'S NEW EVOLUTION

The Minneapolis 2-year-old child that can swim, box, exercise on the horizontal bar, and climb a tree is simply another proof of the progressiveness of the present generation. Since she was 3 weeks old, the little girl has been under the training of her father, who was once a college athlete. It is the father's intention to make his child the most perfect human being in the world.

There is no doubt that the baby was perfect even when it was 3 weeks old, even before the father put it into training. Every baby is perfect. We have this on the authority of all parents. Few of them can swing on horizontal bars and swim at the age of 2 years, but that is because they are not progressive.

While it's quite encouraging to hear of such a wonderful baby, the news about the horizontal bar exercises raises a natural question as to whether we are not progressing as fast that soon we will be back to the point to which Darwin traded us. Darwin's theory in which every progress comes. We are rapidly getting away from the checks and balances of representative government, and the time is approaching when we may discard our clothing and swing from tree-limb to tree-limb, knocking down coconuts, and governing ourselves solely according to weather conditions.

It is well that we should train our babies now on the horizontal bars for their future exploits among the trees. This thought must have been in the mind of the Minneapolis man when he started to train his 3-week-old baby. Otherwise what point would there have been to let it? Apparently he isn't going to let his baby go with a circus. For a long time parents have been content to let nature take its course with their babies, but now that the Minneapolis athlete has pointed the way it may be expected that a race of strong children will soon be produced that will be able to withstand the rigors of outdoors when we take to the trees.

To Teach Women to Walk Gracefully

HOW LONG TREES TAKE TO GROW AN INCH

After hardwood trees obtain a certain age it takes from four to six years for them to grow an inch. Sometimes the rate of increase depends on the locality in which they grow. Hickory trees west of the Allegheny mountains, for instance, grow an inch in a little less than five years, but east of the Alleghenies it takes almost six years to grow an inch. As a rule, however, the results from all localities are practically the same. Poplars need only four years in which to grow an inch; ash trees about five years; oak trees about four years and one-half.

The popularity of Ghirardelli's Cocoa isn't growing by inches, but by leaps and bounds. This increasing demand is due to over 60 years of painstaking care and thought in producing a perfect product.

Ghirardelli's Cocoa

satisfies particular women because it's the essence of goodness and purity. And it is the family beverage because it is good for every member. It is one of the few beverages that can be given to children without any fear of harmful after effects.

Use it today. Give it to the children and note the improvement in their health. Very economical. Costs less than a cent a cup.

NOVELTY STATIONERY FOR INVITATIONS.

A novelty in stationery is shown for card party invitations; the paper is white and of large size; in each corner of the envelope on the face of it is embossed in fac simile color a small playing card, either a "king" or a "queen," or a "tenspot"; the paper is far from inexpensive, costing $5 a box, or about $1.25 for every two dozen sheets, and the envelopes; it would make a jolly little present for anyone addicted to "bridge."

HAVE MANY FRIENDS IN EXCLUSIVE SET.

The Von der Ropps, who used to live on Lake street, are now established in New York, and they have made many friends in its most exclusive set. One of the stalls for the coming opera season has been taken by them, and the papers in New York announce that the stall is to be occupied by Baron Alfred von der Ropp, Baroness Alfred von der Ropp and Baroness Vera von der Ropp.

Mrs. John Breckinridge (Adelaide Murphy) has decided to spend the winter on this coast, and she has taken Mrs. Jane Bothin's house in San Mateo. She will spend the season there with her little son, John Breckinridge Jr.

PERSIAN AMBASSADOR GUEST IN CALIFORNIA.

Among the notable guests of the week in California is Mirza Ali Kuli Khan, the Persian ambassador at most matron with a large friendship circle in local society.

Ebbell will honor Miss Anna Klumpke at the November luncheon Tuesday, November 12, when the gifted artist who is receiving much social attention during her sojourn in the bay cities will give an illustrated lecture on Rosa Bonheur, world famous as an animal painter. Miss Klumpke was a close friend of Rosa Bonheur, with whom she lived, and the lecture gains from those intimate commonplaces between companions that present the renowned painter of horses as a woman as well as an artist.

MRS. GEORGE FRIEND TO BE HOSTESS.

Mrs. George Friend has asked a large number of friends to accept the

MISS KATHERINE REDDING, SISTER OF MRS. HERBERT GEE OF BERKELEY.

The Leon Clarks are now settled in their attractive home in the Adams Point district, and Mrs. Clark is proving to be a very delightful hostess in her own home.

The first dance is to be given on the evening of November 14, in the assembly room of the Horton school. The patronesses are to be Mrs. A. C. Posey, Mrs. E. W. Morrison, Mrs. Alvin Orlick and Mrs. John R. Farrell. The details have been perfectly planned and the dances bid fair to be very popular with the young people.

ROBERT SHARON FIEDMONT HOST.

Last week Mr. Robert Sharon was the host at a most delightful Halloween party, given at the Sharon home in Piedmont. It meant for Robert a reminder of old friends, since he has been away for six years, returning only to spend his vacations in the family home. Mr. Sharon spent two years at Exeter, and he graduated from Yale in the class of 1912.

About a hundred young people assembled at the Sharon for the Halloween party. The decorations were Jack o' lanterns and other historical motifs appropriate to the hour.

Dancing was the diversion of the evening, and at midnight an enjoyable supper was served. Mrs. Hubert Hamilton Brown (Florence Sharon) gave a dinner before the dance, and among the young people who greatly enjoyed the evening were: Misses Dorothy Capwell, Dorothy Taylor, Helen Lowden, Lilla Lovell, Phyllis Lovell, Bina Moseley, Ruth Sharon, Esther Sharon, Myra Hall, Irene Farrell, Lella Kenney, Margaret Warner, Helen Coogan, Gertrude Adams, Marian Barnard, Messrs. Dalila Thomson, Everett Barnard, Geoffrey Bangs, Franklin Bangs, Moylan Fox, Harold Haven, Dean Allen.

All of the young people are looking forward to the many dances of the year, and on all sides there seems a promise of a happy and delightful season.

After their return from their wedding trip the couple will live in this city.

WEDS IN GERMANY. News of the marriage of Miss Helen Bille and Adolph Friede, which has reached here from Berlin, Germany, comes as a surprise to the friends of the former. Friede is the first orchestral conductor of the Friedrich Wilhelm the-ter in Berlin, where Miss Stiles has been singing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Stiles of 635 Thirty-second street.

GREENWAY DANCE. The Greenway ball was held last night in the white and gold room of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, and was a brilliant success, attended by 300 belles and beaux. There were scores of beautiful gowns, most of the debutantes wearing white frocks with gold or silver trimming. Rose color was worn by many of the older guests. Greenway was absent on account of the recent death of Miss Mary Greenway, and his absence was much regretted.

There were numerous smart dinner parties before the assembly. Beautiful decorations adorned the ballroom where autumnal foliage and great white chrysanthemums filled every available space. Among the charmingly gowned belles were Miss Harriet and Miss Marion Stone, formerly of this city. Miss Mary Gayley of Berkeley, Miss Esther Denny and Miss Katherine Redding.

RETURN FROM MOTOR TRIP. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Luning, H. D. Gremie and Miss Virginia and Master Gurnetta have returned from an extended motor tour through the Sonoma mountains, visiting Cloverdale, blue slide of the geyzers, Sulphur Creek, Oakdale and Charles Butro's ranch. It will be a quiet wedding with only the relatives present. There will be no bridal attendants. cats, owls and witches hanging from beams and on walls. Autumn leaves strewed the floor.

Many old and new Halloween games and tricks were enjoyed, after which the time-honored Halloween supper of sandwiches, doughnuts, apples, coffee, etc. was served.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frontier, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rosewarne, Mrs. Katherine Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. Will Spangler, Miss Evelyn Frodick, C. A. ## MISS MILDRED SMITH, HOSTESS.

Miss Mildred Smith, who is well known here, was hostess recently at a handsomely appointed Halloween supper given in honor of her sister, Gladys Smith, at her beautiful summer home, "Rockland Lodge," St. Helena, the occasion being her eighteenth birthday. Sixteen of the younger set were bidden to one of the delightful affairs of the season.

The spacious drawing rooms were decorated in masses of autumnal foliage, yellow chrysanthemums were used in great profusion. Illuminated pumpkins peeped from under the golden branches, lending a weird effect to the scene.

The dining room and table decorations were carried out in the same Halloween note. Pumpkins, black cats and owls were used in great numbers. After the supper dancing and music were the diversion of the evening.

DISPLAY AT HOME CLUB.

The Home Club's book display is attracting many visitors to the East Oakland clubhouse, and much enthusiasm is being shown in the exhibit by the general public. ## Graney Is Prepared to Offer Wolgast Excellent Purse to Box Willie Ritchie

FANS CAN LOOK FOR NEWS BEFORE THE DAY IS OVER

Graney Will Make Attempt to Land Wolgast and Ritchie or Some Other High Class Card

There is little or no news for the followers of the padded mitt today, for the future of the game hereabouts is about as much in the air as it was a month ago. Eddie Graney, who holds the whip-hand as far as the date is concerned, is not sure whether he will strive for a contest Thanksgiving Day or not. This afternoon or evening he will make an effort to land the Coliseum in San Francisco, and if he can get an option on the same will go after Ad Wolgast; that is, he will send an agent to Los Angeles to meet the little champion and his manager and will make them an offer to come to San Francisco and meet Willie Ritchie.

Graney being the only promoter able to do so, he is in a position to do so, and it is not unlikely that he will do so.

Willie Ritchie is so confident that he can land the Coliseum in San Francisco, and if he can get an option on the same will go after Ad Wolgast; that is, he will send an agent to Los Angeles to meet the little champion and his manager and will make them an offer to come to San Francisco and meet Willie Ritchie.

The promoter has been holding off until he was sure that Wolgast would come to California and he will make up his mind some time today or this evening if he comes to stake the big event.

Jimmy Coffey, the other San Francisco promoter, was in the air yesterday, but he is not sure whether he will do so or not. He is not sure whether he will do so or not. He is not sure whether he will do so or not.

Neither than put himself in a hole Jim just concluded to call the staging of a show on Thanksgiving day, thus leaving the entire field to Graney.

HAS OTHER IRONS IN FIRE. Right now, though, let it be said that Graney will not die very deep into the sack for the services of Ad Wolgast. He will offer him exactly what he is worth and not a cent more, and if Wolgast doesn't want it, he will stage another fight in mind he has Frankie Burns and Willie Ritchie but this is hardly possible for Ritchie wants Wolgast and nobody else at this time and he is not likely to be offered a much stiffer price to take on the prize of Oakland.

With this match hardly possible Graney is turning his eyes to Burns and Haves and making a good card, and so it might be that Haves has whipped Frankie already and the particular result of his way to agreement. Yet Frankie has improved a whole lot since he fought Haves and regardless of Haves' past win, the Oakland boy can give him a tough old battle.

WATSON BEATS JOE AZEVEDA. Reddy Watson, who wanted to be introduced as coming from Pueblo, Colo., but who really came from San Rafael and who was a real fighter, took a whipping in the main event with Joe Azeveda, of Sacramento at the Coliseum last night and Joe was in the short end of the scrap when the fight came.

FANS CAN LOOK FOR NEWS BEFORE THE DAY IS OVER

Graney Will Make Attempt to Land Wolgast and Ritchie or Some Other High Class Card

There is little or no news for the followers of the padded mitt today, for the future of the game hereabouts is about as much in the air as it was a month ago. Eddie Graney, who holds the whip-hand as far as the date is concerned, is not sure whether he will strive for a contest Thanksgiving Day or not. This afternoon or evening he will make an effort to land the Coliseum in San Francisco, and if he can get an option on the same will go after Ad Wolgast; that is, he will send an agent to Los Angeles to meet the little champion and his manager and will make them an offer to come to San Francisco and meet Willie Ritchie.

Graney being the only promoter able to do so, he is in a position to do so, and it is not unlikely that he will do so.

Willie Ritchie is so confident that he can land the Coliseum in San Francisco, and if he can get an option on the same will go after Ad Wolgast; that is, he will send an agent to Los Angeles to meet the little champion and his manager and will make them an offer to come to San Francisco and meet Willie Ritchie.

The promoter has been holding off until he was sure that Wolgast would come to California and he will make up his mind some time today or this evening if he comes to stake the big event.

Jimmy Coffey, the other San Francisco promoter, was in the air yesterday, but he is not sure whether he will do so or not. He is not sure whether he will do so or not. He is not sure whether he will do so or not.

Neither than put himself in a hole Jim just concluded to call the staging of a show on Thanksgiving day, thus leaving the entire field to Graney.

HAS OTHER IRONS IN FIRE. Right now, though, let it be said that Graney will not die very deep into the sack for the services of Ad Wolgast. He will offer him exactly what he is worth and not a cent more, and if Wolgast doesn't want it, he will stage another fight in mind he has Frankie Burns and Willie Ritchie but this is hardly possible for Ritchie wants Wolgast and nobody else at this time and he is not likely to be offered a much stiffer price to take on the prize of Oakland.

With this match hardly possible Graney is turning his eyes to Burns and Haves and making a good card, and so it might be that Haves has whipped Frankie already and the particular result of his way to agreement. Yet Frankie has improved a whole lot since he fought Haves and regardless of Haves' past win, the Oakland boy can give him a tough old battle.

GETTING PREPPED TO DIG INTO THE BIG GOOSE STEW

SACRAMENTO Sportsmen Planning to Entertain Folks With Real Feast.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—Twenty cooks will combine their culinary art in this city November 24 to make the big goose stew to be given at Agricultural park by local sportsmen to the sportsmen of northern California, the finest stew ever tasted. And this little army of cooks will be assisted by a bigger army of waiters.

Chairman W. W. Thomas and Louis Bauer of the culinary department of the goose stew have arranged to employ 25 waiters to serve the stew. These waiters will be taken to the scene of the feast in the morning and will be through a regular drill so that there will be no delay in the serving and no embarrassing mistakes.

Plans for the big day are coming on in good shape. The executive committee recently held an enthusiastic meeting at which it was proposed to raise $3000 to cover the expenses of the event. This goal is being met by the sale of tickets.

The blue rock committee, which is arranging a shoot for the day, has perfected its plans and will have several prizes to offer for the best score. The harness racing committee is busy engaged in entering horses for the events, and promises some excellent mid-winter racing.

And last, but not least, the entertainment committee has a number of vaudeville stunts, comic opera and other attractions planned during the big feast.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS OF WELL-DRESSED FOLK

A GIFT FOR THE HOSTESS

ELEANOR DEAR:

I must tell you of a little party that I gave the other evening for May Alden, who has been visiting me for a few days. I had the hall and library decorated with oak leaves, and even the candles had a decoration of the lovely red-and-yellow leaves. Of course, I had to scrape around for young men to appeal to the younger girls—for I hate to say it, Eleanor, but I am growing old. Well, I invited, among the others, Eugene Wood, that Adonis and Chesterfield combined, and he won his way to my old heart by sending me flowers enough to set off the party in a blaze of color.

They came as we were putting the finishing touches to the room. May had donned a lovely little frock of gray charmeuse, made with a hint of pannier lines in the draped skirt. Turquoise satin was at the soft collar and the girdle ended in a single end, fringed. Over the corsage and a gray rounded end dropped. A narrow band of blue defined the dropped shoulder seam—a marked feature of the new modes, my dear. Fullness at the waist line was graceful in the soft charmeuse.

Little Betty Anderson was right at hand in a lovely soft striped velvet in black and gray. It wasn't at all too old, for it had a flat collar and one rever of old rose. The other rever was of the velvet, with horizontal stripes. The bodice ended in an apron in front and had a colored girdle with a black bow, held in by an ivory buckle. Black buttons trimmed the long sleeves and the bodice on each side of the revers. The skirt was cut in a curved line at the front—which you simply must have in your winter frock, my dear.

I glided in a golden tan charmeuse, in which I feel always so well dressed. It is made over a suggestion of white corded silk, which shows at the side of the bodice and at the slashed skirt. Buttons trim the side and bottom of the skirt, and these are buttoned on the pannier at the top. Fullness in the underskirt was given on one side. A yoke of white net was bound with white silk and long cuffs of net finished the coat sleeves. Here again was the dropped armhole. A deep collar rolled back from the front. And last was the edging of fur that gave a tone to the gown. It edged the collar and the white panel in the skirt. A round buckle of fur held the black satin girdle at one side.

There we were, gathered around the gift that brought to our minds the "party." I'll tell you of that when I see you. Good luck to you in your dressmaking efforts; and tell me about them.

With love,

MADGE.

—HELEN THURLOW

GERMANS TAKE BLAME FOR WAR

Acute Attack of Self-Criticism Inflicted on Kaiser's Empire.

Jingo Press Declares France Acted Right in Balkan's Matter.

BERLIN, Nov. 9. — Germans occasionally suffer from acute attacks of self-criticism and while such an attack there they are as disinterested as themselves as under ordinary circumstances, they are firmly convinced that they are the saviors of the world. Just now they are blaming themselves, through their press, for not having prevented the outbreak of war in the Balkans. A bitter editorial in "Berliner Tageblatt" the other day censured the actions of France and Germany and the comparison is not very flattering to this country.

The German jingo press, the paper says, has long been in the habit of depicting the French as pugnacious and anxious to stir up trouble, while the French chauvinistic press has made the same accusations against the Germans. But when the situation suddenly became dangerous this game stopped and the German papers were astonished to see that France acted very sensibly, and the French papers immediately did everything they could to support their government, while Germany had to be satisfied to follow France's lead—not a very pleasant part for Germany to play.

It is in this connection that the Kaiser has been cruelly disappointed his subjects, many of whom, in spite of the many mistakes he has made whenever he has personally attempted to take a hand in the diplomatic game, were still convinced that should a real danger to the peace of Europe arise, the Kaiser would immediately come forward with a solution which would at once restore order and solve the Balkan question but the Kaiser so far has done nothing and there is nothing to indicate that he intends doing anything.

FRIENDLY TO TURKS.
Sympathy in Germany was most assuredly with the Turks whom they have become used to look upon as gentlemen, while Serbians, Bulgarians, Montenegrins and even Greeks are considered little better than ordinary bandits. Another reason why the German press is so far more interested in Turkey than in any of the small Balkan states.

The interests of Germany in a general continental conflagration centers mainly, of course, in the probability that they would be drawn into it in support of Austria. Count Reventlow, discussing the potentialities of the situation, declares that the Fatherland will at least not be caught napping if the Kaiser is called upon to don his "shining armor" of "Bosnian memory." "It is well," writes Count Reventlow, "to bear in mind that the German Empire is the only one of the great powers which can rely on absolute justification that it is ready at any moment. We need no trial mobilizations, either on land or sea."

The German government will faithfully show the Austrians lead, whatever that may be, as fidelity to the Triple Alliance is one of the foundations of German foreign policy.

There is some talk of a new Berlin Congress eventually, but on the great powers are determined that the integrity of Turkey in Europe must be upheld and the status quo maintained, there would seem to be no redistribution work for a congress to do.

WAR IN FINLAND.
In Finland the war between the national senate and Governor General Sern, who is bent upon destroying the national independence of the Finns, continues and at present the principal question to be settled is when the proper time is for the next elections to the Diet.

This uncertainty is due to the many allegations of the Diet, as the Senate has not with the representatives did not have an opportunity of sitting the full time allowed by their mandates, namely, three years.

In these circumstances, the governor-general considers that the elections may be held next year, whereas the Senate thinks 1914 is the proper year. His excellency is interested in the matter, because the elections will give him an opportunity of seeking to compel the Diet to conform to the country and the officials to conformity to the illegal Russian equalization law.

As this "law" proclaims equality in Finland between Finnish citizens and Russian subjects, the governor-general holds that Russians living in Finland can participate in the elections to the Diet in the same way as Finnish citizens.

If they are not allowed to do so, the governor-general's view, as declared invalid. There is absolutely no doubt that the Finnish Diet will have to do with the elections will not comply with the demand of the country and the officials to conform to the illegal Russian equalization law.

The ever increasing bitterness between the Kaiser and the Crown-prince has been noted in the German press, and it is causing considerable anxiety among that part of the German people who realize that at any moment the Crown Prince may be called upon to assume the reins of government, and since the Kaiser has refused to crown him, it naturally follows that when he takes his place at the helm he will be the German ship of state upon a stormy sea.

Some years ago the Crown Prince, in a letter to a friend, complained that he was like a naval officer who might at any moment be called upon to navigate a ship of state, but he had never been permitted to study the charts or even to take a look at the helm, indicating that he had been kept by his father entirely ignorant of the duties of the office. The Crown Prince has been little or no change since then in this respect, namely, that he has never been permitted to take a look at the helm, indicating that he has been kept by his father entirely ignorant of the duties of the office.

Taken on Rounds of the Camera Man Abroad

"REBEL" BANDS MARCHING THROUGH STREETS OF BELFAST

COUNT BERCHTOLD

MISS SYLVIA GREENFIELD

INTRODUCTIONS

There were impressive scenes in Belfast on Saturday last, Ulster day, when Sir Edward Carson, under the dome of the city hall, was the first to sign the Solemn League and Covenant, which includes the following sentence: "And in the event of a parliament being forced upon us, we further solemnly and mutually pledge ourselves to refuse to recognize its authority." The photograph shows Sir Edward signing the parchment with the silver pen, and Lord Londonderry is seen waiting to add his signature. Some 40,000 people signed in the city hall alone on Saturday.

Bradley Martin last week entered a party for a grand drive over the Beauty Flats, Balmacaula, Inverness-shire. The photograph shows the Countess Zia Torby (with her dog Yester) and Captain Monckton in the butts waiting for the drive to begin.

COUNT BERCHTOLD, Austrian foreign minister, is rather the man of the moment on the continent of Europe. His speech caused pessimism, because it laid so little stress on Austria's intention to preserve the peace, and thereby gave encouragement to the Balkan states, with which Austria is doubtless in agreement.

MISS SYLVIA GREENFIELD is shortly to be married to Captain E. Watts-Tussell. She is the daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Charles Grenfell and a niece of Lord Desborough.

LILAH WINGFIELD is to wed Major Clive Morrison-Bell. She is the daughter of the Dowager Lady Powerscourt.

SOCIETY WOMEN WILL HAVE SCHOOL

LONDON, Nov. 9. — Lessons in management in money matters is the latest project of Viscountess Palmer for the better education of society women. This opening lessons at a business school will be given early in November at Craig's court house.

The viscountess has carefully thought out the new scheme. The tuition will include a special lesson in the management of a banking account, but the chief attraction will be devoted to what might be called the dollars and cents of social life.

Qualifiable women will be shown, among other things, how to manage dress allowances, pin money, charitable contributions, club and other subscriptions, and bridge records.

JERUSALEM HOUSE PROBLEM IS SERIOUS

LONDON, Nov. 9. — The housing question in Jerusalem is one that is receiving considerable attention at the present moment. There are many fine buildings in and about the Holy City, but they are surrounded by what in this country would be called slums. A few wealthy Bazarans have, indeed, built themselves fine mansions, but the great mass of the population can scarcely afford to have decent houses.

A project has accordingly been mooted in England of forming a small garden suburb outside Jerusalem, in which the houses will be let to the better-class artisans at a rental of something between $10 and $50 per annum. The garden city movement has made great headway in this country, and the consequence is offering an excellent solution for the housing problem of large industrial cities, and at the same time fostering the love of the land and the garden, which the modern concentration of the population in towns has threatened.

LAND IS CHEAP.
Land can be bought fairly cheaply in the outskirts of Jerusalem, and it has been calculated that a substantial little house, with half an acre of ground, could be provided for about $1000.

The garden could be planted with figs, olives and kitchen vegetables, for which there is a market in the city, and the tenant could thus be enabled to add a little to his income by the care of his little plot.

According to a plan which would preserve the natural beauty of the site.

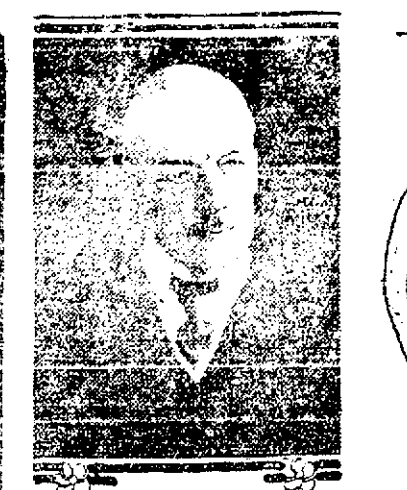

Communication with the city would be established by a bus, or possibly, if the concession could be obtained, by a tramway.

The success of Tel-Aruda, the colony outside of Jaffa, augurs well for the proposed movement for Jerusalem, where the land is much cheaper than in Jaffa. If the scheme succeeds completely, it will certainly be the forerunner of many others. Besides, it will preserve the beauty of the hill around the Holy City.

Sir John Grey Hill, who for thirty years has possessed a beautiful house on one of the slopes of the Mount of Olives, is very much interested in the garden city scheme.

RED CROSS USES AIR TRAVELER ON FIELD

PARIS, Nov. 9. — Dr. Emil Raymond, not merely president of the military aviation committee, but an active and fervent aviator. He holds the rank of surgeon-major in the army and was called upon to serve during the grand autumn maneuvers, when advantage was taken of his knowledge of flying to test the utility of the aeroplanes for searching for the wounded after a battle.

He himself has described the results. For some time, he writes, there has been much talk about the possibility of picking up wounded men and carrying them off by means of aeroplanes to where their injuries can receive attention.

"I do not know if the future will see such a problem solved," he writes, "but I trust that its solution will not be allowed to interfere with the plan, which can already be realized, of using the aeroplane to seek where wounded men are lying and bring back word to the hospital service."

"During the war of 1870 and the fighting in Manchuria many wounded men remained days and nights without succor and many died not so much because of their wounds, but from the delay, exposure, cold and want of food and drink. And yet this state of affairs was not always due to insufficiency of medical aid; often enough the means to aid was relatively close at hand and not fully occupied, but between the ill and its remedy the bond of understanding was wanting."

FINDS 300 WOUNDED.
"On September 17, the last day of the maneuvers, I was notified that 300 wounded men belonging to the ninth division were to be found in the quadrilateral between the villages of Sepmes, Citray, Bourman and Brulieres and I was told to inform the divisionary doctor of their situation."

"I left Saint-Maure on my aeroplane in fine weather, with a maximum height, at which I was flying 600 feet, but with violent eddies below 600 feet height, as one generally finds during the hot hours of midday."

"Before entering the given quadrilateral I decided to locate the exact position of the headquarters staff of the ninth division, for I had the intention of making my report directly to the division's surgeon."

"I flew over Sepmes and distinguished exactly the position of the staff and then returned to the quadrilateral indicated. I entered it, flying low at about one hundred feet and found it full of troops in action. The noise of my motor prevented me hearing the sound of the guns and the cracking of the rifles, but sparks without number kept rising from the ground. Behind a wood I saw several squadrons of cavalry and on a peak of elevated ground some batteries were working; in front were many foot soldiers walking around. I called to them; they only they remembered their orders and lay down, so that I knew for certain they were my wounded."

"In time of war they would not have left the horizontal position, and when they saw the red cross painted on the agreed-upon sign which would make the task of the man looking down from above so easy."

LONG JOURNEY MADE.
To the north of the quadrilateral I traversed the plain of Brulieres, which was empty of troops and deserted. Any wounded would have been easily seen, but there was none, so I steered for the headquarters staff and landed close to the little farm where I had located it. I was welcomed by the division's chief surgeon and several of the doctors. First of all I had to consult that they had found it impossible to obtain the services of more than one-third of the number of wounded they wanted. I reported the exact position of the groups I had found, showing the places on a map."

"I have since made a full report to the army department on the experiment, which I think I can say shows that the medical service will find the aeroplane a valuable instrument for reconnaissance and information."

BERNHARDT SHIES WOMAN OF GREECE AT POLITICS FOR WOMEN

LONDON, Nov. 9. — "What a question to ask of one who has just poisoned her own son, though only in a play!" ejaculated Mrs. Bernhardt when asked to give her views on the modern woman. "You heard how hard I tried to enjoin my proud duke by the ancient virtues of womanhood. Well, those virtues should never be surrendered. Surely they are more useful than the vote for the subjugation of that wild creature, man. But do not think that I would have women use the militant methods of the poison, to which Lucretia Borgia was so wedded!"

"The temper of men and the temper of women are so different. I feel it even in the audiences I receive. The women are charming, but after all they do little to create the compact enthusiasm of a house. It is the men whom I feel chiefly responding to me and being drawn out of themselves by my art."

"And in politics the same difference would tell somehow. When a queen reigns, who governs? Not the queen, but the ministers, and the ministers are men. I myself am an artist, and I have never mixed myself with these questions. This is certainly without special consideration, you understand—I feel."

"Voting does not seem to me to be real politics. At any rate, it is not action, and continuous participation in politics. Voting is a small political matter, and though not for that reason, it is ridiculous that a great Parisian artist should be barred from the vote when any stupid fellow who can sweep a staircase is encouraged to vote. And encouraged, mind you, by all sorts of parties who play on his lack of intelligence and his love of self-interest."

"But beyond that women need not go. The cabinets and parliaments are just as well without them. Art, literature, drama—yes, there you have living, passionate things, in which women are needed at their finest."

PIERRE LOTI ADMIRES TURKS

Frenchman Awards Ottoman People "Most Beautiful of Crowns."

Nation's Sympathy, However Has Been With the Montenegrins.

PARIS, Nov. 9. — The people of France, as a whole, of course, are in full sympathy with the gallant and heroic Montenegrins in their unenvied war with the Turks, but the latter are not without their admirers. Pierre Loti has written an eloquent article on their behalf, which is published here.

The famous writer recalls that in 1870 the Arabs of Algeria, who had reasonable complaints against France, decided to revolt. But war broke out between France and Germany, and they contented themselves by warning of the French. It was only when peace was signed that they rose against the French. Pierre Loti regrets that what he describes as this noble example has not been followed by the Balkan peoples. Whatever may be their complaints against Turkey, he considers that it is cowardly on their part to take advantage of this country's misfortune, and to attack her from behind. He compares the Balkan states to hyenas, who approach their prey knowing that the latter is already wounded, and declares that without them Italy would never have triumphed over the "sublime obstacle" of Turkey, notwithstanding her formidable naval guns.

For the honor of Italy Pierre Loti wants to believe that it is not she who has fomented the Balkan rising. He considers that Christian Europe should have intervened, if only out of respect for the admirable heroism of the Turks, and declares that the inaction of Europe will remain a blemish on her history.

CROWN OF BEAUTY.
"What Europe has not done," he says, "perhaps from with disinterested America will have the glory of doing in its place. A few words of President Taft's led me to hope that America thought of proposing arbitration. Whatever happens," he adds, "the Turkish people by their resistance and bravery have won the most beautiful of crowns, and I believe that at the bottom the large majority of Frenchmen are of my opinion."

At Fallieres' present at his vine-growing estate of this year's vintage, the property usually yields an abundant harvest of drinkable wine, and there is a friendly rivalry in the matter of quality between the vineyards of the well-known author whose "Vignoble" is in the neighborhood. M. Fallieres greatly enjoys his periodical stays at Loupion, which is his "countryside" or ancestral home. He leads the simple life there, retiring nights at 10, according to the papers.

COMEDY IN COURT.
Our law courts are always providing comedies. A new instance relates to an actor, Adolphe Lechaud, a theatrical scene painter, who was the proprietor of a toboggan at a fair and injuries received while tobogganing. M. Lechaud is 55 years of age and the judge remarked, in the course of the trial: "You know, sir, you ought to be 65 to be in your present vigor."

The plaintiff's counsel thereupon arose, and addressing the court more in sorrow than in anger, retorted that the age of law was the last place in the world where he would have expected to hear the doctrine of "too old at 55" expounded from the bench, as at that age judges and counsel alike were at the height of their powers. The court was evidently impressed by this argument ad hominem. Anyway, M. Lechaud was awarded damages against the toboggan proprietor.

ALARMING PROGRESS IN FRENCH CITIES.
The white slave traffic is making alarming progress in French cities. The secret police are actively at work and numerous arrests have been made in Paris and Lyons. Vigilance societies are also on the track of a clandestine organization that appears to be very widely spread. News from Quebec states that the police of that city made a raid on two houses of ill-fame and out of the seventeen women who were found, fifteen were respectable young French girls who had been enticed out on fictitious engagements as school teachers and dressmakers. Once they were entrapped, they were kept prisoners until they accepted the revolting career. Mexico and the Argentine are the favorite markets, it appears. French scoundrels owe much of their immunity to the law itself, which will not allow arrest of a man unless in the act. They are seldom seen with their victims, except a few hours before the departure of the steamer. That is why the police often arrive on the spot too late.

NOBLEMAN IN JAIL.
Arrests of foreign noblemen, real or pretended, who have come to this city to make merry on money not their own, are too frequent to cause anything like even a passing remark. An Italian nobleman, interested in Baron Clemens von Dadowitz, who is not only the nephew of an ambassador, but related by marriage to the Kaiser himself, and who was quietly arrested the other day, was found in the company of the most beautiful woman in Paris, ever seen—the Variété star, Mlle. Behour, better known as Yvonne d'Armen.

The Baron, who is about thirty, has a handsome face, and a million francs within the last six weeks. He has no resources are exhausted he still kept up a country chateau with 18 servants, 15 horses, three automobiles and a town residence in the Rue Pigouleze.

Mlle. Yvonne d'Armen is a great fondness for tasteful and valuable jewelry, and whenever she particularly admired an article the Baron presented it to her. One day, the prodigal, being in need of ready money, pawned the diamond necklace which he had already had pawned, produced, it is said, a paper apparently showing he was shortly to receive $250,000 under his grandfather's will, and finally ordered a wedding in the city, and tapestries to be sent to his chateau near Fontainebleau, giving promissory notes in payment.

He has learned that his goods had been pledged or sold, and as the bills were not met on the appointed day he lodged a charge, and when the Baron was recognized in a fashionable night report he was hurried to the lock-up, although he argued that his difficulties were commercial and could only give ground for a civil law suit.

METHOD IN MADNESS.
There is method in the madness of the "Phaéton" of the autumn salon. The method is an industry, not a mere waste of time. Its productions are bought principally by the Russians and the Russians, who show interests in disposing of their wares at high prices. Enthusiasm has its paroxysm in a wealthy Russian lady who lives now in Florence, now in the quarter of Mount Parnassus.

BRITISH ROYAL PALACE TO UNDERGO CHANGE

LONDON, Nov. 9. — London has only one more summer to look upon the spectacularly ugly front of the royal family's London residence, Buckingham Palace, for when the London season ends next year the building will be turned over to a firm of contractors and an amount of $500,000 will be spent on providing the place with a new and better looking face.

Another woman who has lived much in Greece said:

"The Greeks have revived some of the old dances to the music of drums now that war is in the air once more, and tell me, I have seen a wild dance, waving torches of pine wood."

MACDONOUGH

That fight will rule was never more evidenced than in Paul Armstrong's new play, "A Romance of the Underworld," which Holbrook Blinn comes to the Macdonough Wednesday matinee, November 13, for a four-day stay. The plot is built around the efforts of a politician named O'Leary to bribe Richard Elliott, an inspector for the park department of the city of New York. O'Leary tries to put through a contract by which he aims to swindle the city out of a large sum of money, and upon Elliott's refusal to be a party to the transaction he is resolved to be revenged. This resolution is strengthened by his rejection as a suitor by the hand of Doris Elliott, sister of Richard. Through his confederates he has Elliott arrested on a charge of receiving bribes, they swearing that they witnessed the passage of money between him and O'Leary.

During a rehearsal of the trial a summer shower comes up suddenly, plunging the courtroom into darkness. This causes Elliott's sister to wonder if a like weather condition on the day in question would refute the testimony presented by the attorney for the prosecution. She whispers her idea to McDermott with the suggestion that the weather bureau be consulted. He adopts the idea at once, and finds that on that day and at the same hour O'Leary has sworn the bribe was passed, that three inches of rain fell over the entire city and that the darkness was unusual. This brings about Elliott's release and Doris repays McDermott's loyalty to her brother by her hand. The fine character drawings shown in Mrs. Armstrong's other plays, "Alias Rah" are again evidenced in "A Romance of the Underworld." The cast engaged for the support of Mr. Blinn is a worthy one and includes several players of national and international reputation. Miss Ruth Benson is the leading woman and others who will contribute their services are Anna McDonald, George Miller, James Marcus, W. Tammany Young, Charles Elliott, Leonard Hollister, Robert Stevens, Norman Phillips, Benjamin Plaza and William O'Neill. The scenic investiture is unusually attractive, showing a courtroom in General Sessions, New York, during a trial; a wonderful reproduction of a corridor in the famous Tombs prison and a strikingly effective view of Riverside drive with its background of the Hudson river Palisades.

JULIAN ELTINGE.

Women who require an hour or more in which to make themselves attractive and complete their toilette should go and see Julian Eltinge when that famous actor comes to the Macdonough theater for four days and matinee, starting Tuesday, November 17, in "The Fascinating Widow." As everyone knows, Julian Eltinge is the world's foremost impersonator of the gentler sex. His ability to masquerade as a "woman" has made him famous, and not the least important feature of his portrayal in his latest, "The Fascinating Widow," is the beautiful gowns he is said to be unsurpassed even by our greatest social leaders, for the star of "The Fascinating Widow" makes a salary which the President might envy, and consequently is able to afford absolutely the finest specimens of the modiste's art. But time on the stage is short, and changing from one beautiful gown to another has become with the actor an art, or a science or whatever you may wish to name the ability to kick off one dress while having its successor "looked up," preparatory to tripping back on the scene. This art, or science, or whatever you may wish to call it, Eltinge has acquired to a nicety, and his "change" in the last act in "The Fascinating Widow" is said to make the women gasp with amazement.

next week. The booking of Nell Schmidt, the Alameda girl, by Manager Ely for his headline attraction at the local vaudeville theater has created keen interest in social circles and the management has arranged for special nights to accommodate the various organizations who wish to honor the brave little girl who has jumped into national fame by her recent swimming feat. She will appear as the star act in the new bill which opens at the Pantages this afternoon, and her debut in San Francisco is an assurance that the local vaudeville theater will be taxed to capacity during the coming week.

Mr. Schmidt has an act that will gain her new laurels. She gives a splendid exhibition of fancy diving and shows the strokes used in swimming that won her renown. A huge tank filled with water is on the stage and a splendidly wetting showering the Cliff House, the Golden Gate and the Seal Rocks loom up in the background. Perched on a lofty pedestal "the Alameda mermaid" does her diving, showing several dips for which she is famous. Her actions in the water are graceful and her swim like figure is shown in beautiful silken tights.

Not the least of the honors which are to be shown Miss Schmidt is the official visit of the Council of Alameda, which will attend Monday evening's performance in a body. This night will be known as "Alameda Night" and special arrangements are being made by Manager Ely for the affair to be a gala event. Mayor Roy has signified his consent to make a short address and the Alameda girl will do a few extra fancy stunts for her home folks.

Surrounding the "Alameda Mermaid" Manager Ely has gathered a splendid show that will add to the interest of the star feature. One of the best comedy playlets that has appeared on the big time last season with its present principal, Eleanor Olsen, is "The Case of the Chorus De Boy" is a chorus girl of the type made familiar by Rose Stahl and her stage partner is reminiscent of that famous character actress. The plot of the piece, and there is a brief one, relates the trials of a stage charmer named to make a "name" before the footlights. She receives a bad bump when stricken from the list of aspirants and the De Vere personage comes to the aid of the deposed girl by surrendering her role.

The real comedy hit of the bill is unquestionably the Millard Brothers, who have a wheeling performance which is in a class by itself. One of the brothers is funny and he is not on the boards long before the audience is acquainted with that fact. The other Millard carries his end of the salary roll by daring stunts on the bike. And, by the way, they have a little jaw-wow which gets his share of applause.

ROLLICKING FROTH. Grace Orma and Charlie Lea will offer for the approval of Pantages patrons a rollicking bit of froth called "Six Feet of Comedy." Grace is the sextet and one of the team and she is lean, lanky and funny. She has been in the picking quips at her slat like proportions and seems to enjoy her self inflicted slaps as much as the audience.

The All Star Trio are comedians that make a repertoire of the newest song hits and Emerald plays patriotic and operatic tunes on the wooden xylophone. The motion pictures will be of interest as they show views of the Balkan war, and with the comedies in the bill there is a program that looks as though Manager Ely will smash all previous attendance records.

STRONG LIMBS And FIRM

SAYS Alma Rupp

Copyright 1912 By Lillian Russell

ATHLETIC arms and legs are acquisitions to be desired. The fact that the stocking manufacturers have been obliged to enlarge the forms on which stockings and hose are woven in order to meet the demand for larger hosiery is an evidence and proof of the report made by a prominent president of a noted women's club that women's limbs are becoming stronger.

The announcement that the American women have larger feet than formerly is a credit to the American women, whose feet cannot ever be too large, for it is universally known that as a race the Americans are the smallest footed nation on this great earth.

The feet of our women may be larger than they were formerly from the fact that they are becoming more sensible. They wear better shoes and better socks are being made each year. Let us and comfort take the place of smallness and discomfort.

Women realize that beauty of face and form can be distorted by a tight shoe more quickly than by sorrow and calamity.

The modern athletic girl is bringing about a regeneration of her kind. Strong limbs, athletic and firm, and fat limbs, soft and chubby, are two absolutely different conditions. The first are straight and symmetrical, therefore beautiful. The second are anything but symmetrical and suggest "beef to the heels."

Fat is unbecoming on any girl who has passed the age of 4.

Change in Garters Has Effect.

Do not imagine because the factories are enlarging their models that women's feet and limbs are abnormally large. The side elastics are more responsible for this change than athletic exercises.

It was only a few years ago when women wore only round garters and the length of stocking was not considered. Today all women wear the garters fastened to their corners, which necessitates more width at the toe of the stocking in order to allow for sitting as well as standing. Hence the larger stockings.

Good understandings are the first requisite for higher education.

A pretty foot is one of the greatest attractions that a girl can have, and it is acknowledged that the American girl possesses as handsome feet as the girls of any nation of the world, but it is also acknowledged that, with the exception of the Chinese, the women of no other nation abuse their feet as do the Americans. The foot, like the hand, is flexible, mobile, plastic, and sensitive to touch. Perhaps its most important characteristic is its elasticity. This is due to a certain extent to the number of bones and joints which compose it, but in great measure to its arched construction.

The beauty of face and form are more distorted by tight shoes than by sorrow and calamity.

A system of arches and pillars is formed by the bones of the feet in such a way that the greatest weight can be borne with the least strain.

It is not caused by carelessness.

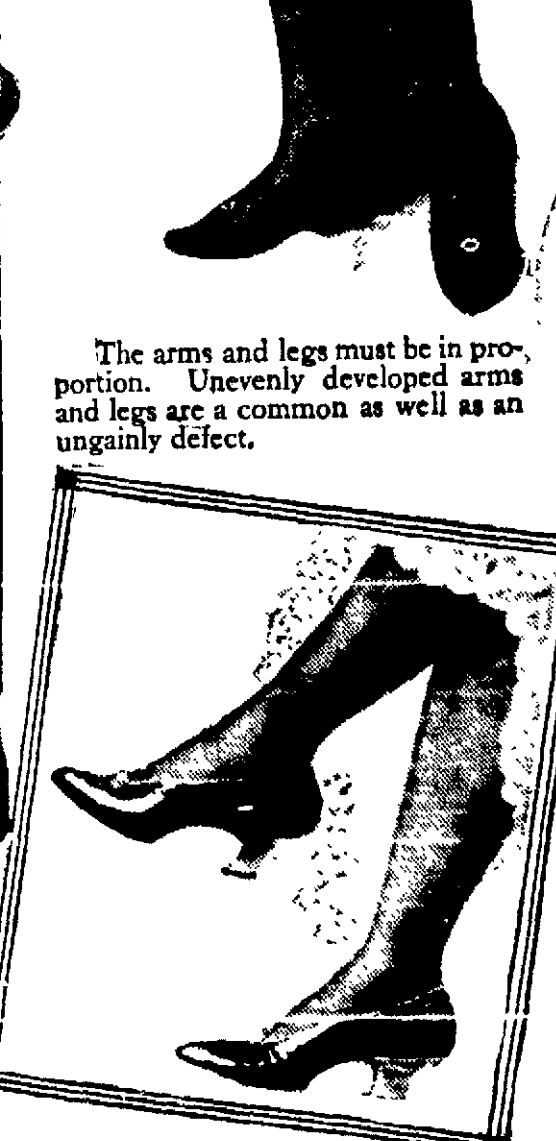

If you wish to know if you have a flat foot, dip your foot in water and then put it down on a piece of paper or board and if the arch is broken the print will show the whole bottom of the foot. If the foot is normal there will be a high arch at the inner side of the arch.

Flat foot is generally caused by weakness, combined with loose strapping, and especially from the unfortunate habit of turning in the feet.

To keep the feet in a normal position, wear a 1 1/2 inch arch support. This will give the foot a normal position and the foot will be in a normal position.

The limbs should be straight and symmetrical. Fat is unbecoming on any girl who has passed the age of four.

The arms and legs must be in proportion. Unevenly developed arms and legs are a common as well as an ungainly defect.

Women are dressing their feet more sensibly. Fit and comfort take the place of smallness and discomfort.

stretch. The shoe should be three-fourths of an inch longer than the foot, for the foot works forward in walking. Short shoes force the toes back and finally the joints become distorted and bulge out on the sides and above, and thus corns, bunions, and other disorders are developed.

During the day practice some good exercises to keep every part of the body, particularly the legs and arms, in good condition. Try to make some one hour convenient each day; persevere and do not give them up even once.

Exercises for Legs and Arms.

There is a wide choice in the exercises which one may take, but a few suggestions may be helpful.

Take a good standing position and then a position exercise. With arms overhead stretch upward in a long, elastic movement; then stretch arms out at the sides and down, at the same time reaching up and back strongly with the crown of the head. The chest will come up and the shoulders go down to proper position if it is done correctly.

Follow by a poising exercise for a graceful carriage. A good one is to raise and lower the weight slowly and rhythmically on the toes. This will develop the calf of the leg as well as the muscles of the back, which keep the trunk and head erect. It will also make the ankle flexible, bring the body into poise, and quiet the nerves. Practice this with the eyes fixed on some point straight ahead; balance on one foot and then on the other.

Now strengthen the spine and increase circulation by the following: Stretch arms high overhead and bend gently forward and backward, breathing slowly through the nose.

Lengthen your waist by reaching arms overhead, then bending to the floor, keeping the knees straight. The officers of the American army, who are famous for their tapering waists, are said to do this exercise faithfully, repeating it many times each morning.

The announcement that the American women have larger feet than formerly is a credit to the women. Women nowadays are giving their feet room enough to be beautiful.

Increase the number of times gradually from day to day. If you cannot touch the floor with knees straight, precede the exercise by this one:

Sit on the floor, legs outstretched, spine and head erect, arms straight at the sides, resting hands on the floor, fingers pointing backward. Then, without moving the body, lift first one foot and then the other several inches from the floor in alternate motion. This is a splendid exercise for keeping the spine and shoulders straight.

Now is the time to relax. Lie flat on the floor, taking the position which you assume on the bed, legs and arms outstretched. Inhale deeply and slowly, and as the breath is expelled let every muscle and nerve relax to the utmost until you feel every part heavy upon the floor.

Resistance Theory Is Much Used.

Repeat this breathing exercise three times, then test the limbs, one by one, raising each heavily from the floor, letting it drop down again. In the same way flop about until you feel thoroughly relaxed in every part.

Now swing in your feet and take the next exercise: one to keep your body supple and graceful: Stand on one foot and raise the other knee to the chest, holding it there with hands clasped about it. Keep the back straight and stand in this position as long as possible. Then practice the exercise with the other knee.

This might be followed by any one of several kicking movements. Try this one: Kick one foot as high as you can and then the other, pretending that you are aiming at a ball with your toe.

Here is an exercise for agility in high kicking: Stand in the doorway and, resting a hand on each jamb of the door, swing the leg forward and backward as far as it will go. Practice this until tired. In resting swing the arms rapidly, first alternately and then together, both forward and backward, keeping the chest firm and well to the front.

Before finishing practice some torso movements. The theory of resistance in exercise is now used largely in modern methods. To illustrate, try the following torso exercise:

Stretch the arms front on a level with the shoulder, palms facing each other. Standing firmly on the feet, first twist the body by turning hips, shoulders, and head to the right as far as possible, move arms to the right at the same time, keeping right arm straight and flexing the left at elbow toward the last, now holding hips and head in this position at the extreme right, contract the arm muscles and move arms and shoulders to the left as far as possible. Next, twist the arms and shoulders to the right, at the same time twisting hips and head to the left. Repeat five times.

Punching Bag Improves Arm.

A simple head and neck exercise is a sitting one with which to close your morning practice. Rotate the head slowly, keeping the face front, reversing the direction with each rotation.

It may seem rather formidable to think of taking all of these exercises in one day, and they have not been given for that purpose, but merely to offer you a variety which will bring into play every part of the body.

From these you may choose a few which experience teaches you are most beneficial to your particular case. Any good exercise done with care is sure to bring you rich results. Perseverance is your watchword.

The problem of indoor exercise for girls is solved by the use of the punching bag, of which I have long been an advocate. By the use of this apparatus every muscle in the body is brought into play. The thin girl grows plump from development of her muscles, and the stout girl grows thin because the extra fats are burned up and waste matter is quickly cast off.

Although this exercise is generally indulged in indoors, still you can so arrange to have plenty of fresh outdoor air in the room, being careful not to get a chill when you are through exercising. The mental effect is exhilarating, for the girl must be constantly on the alert, and her mind must have complete control of her body.

The object of all exercise, as girls well know, is to make the blood circulate freely, in order to give new life to all of the tissues and to carry off quickly all of the old waste material. Bag punching will accomplish this result as well as any other sport that I know.

Devotion to this exercise will bring about a velvety complexion, or at least the complexion will come as near the ideal by the use of the punching bag, if there is fresh air in your room, as it can by any other means.

Many cases of dyspepsia and the "blues" have been vanquished by the punching bag.

Huge Hips Never Beautiful.

The bag should be about at a level with the shoulders, then you must strike straight out at that height. This stroke calls into play more muscles than any other. If you hit the bag a little above the center it will not rebound and your nose will thus be spared many a bruise.

It is well to have a light flannel gymnasium suit and slip this on whenever you practice. You can choose your own kind of bag, as there is a great variety. You will need also a pair of light knuckle gloves.

I am glad to see that the huge, spreading hips have gone out with other monstrosities we used to consider in the sum of beauty. They were never beautiful. The feminine figure of today has lost the appearance of nonresistance, the billowness of the feather bed. I still have softness of outline and looks well covered with flesh, but there is a suggestion of a fine strong framework, as of well tempered steel beneath. There is about her less the impression of softness and more that of strength.

I find that women are growing much taller, and am glad this is so, for my personal taste is for the tall woman.

SOCIETY

WHAT SUZETTE HAS TO SAY OF LOCAL SOCIETY AND PEOPLE

SOCIETY, or the social world generally, offers a theme of enormous interest, of value alike to those in the heart of the smart set, as well as to those outside, who love to read of social activities, and to join in them if only in imagination.

The cleverest society memoirs that have appeared in many a day are those written by Frederick Townsend Martin and now appearing in Almslee's Magazine. Besides introducing us to many well-known people, they are full of an illuminating philosophy that is as helpful as it is charming. One finds the latter in the following description of "a lady":

"Her natural dignity, together with her kindness of heart, was apparent in her every feature, and all her entertaining was done without any apparent effort. Her accomplished daughters, all lovers of music, added much to the charm of those brilliant receptions and to the popularity of their mother. I cannot help but compare the leisure and repose of people in those days with the rush and bustle of New York life nowadays."

"I remember asking Mrs. Paron Stevens one day what was requisite for success in the social world. She replied to me:

"My dear Mr. Martin, the trouble with people in the social world now is that they want to be treated as the Queen of Sheba. They would enjoy life so much more if they would only be natural, taking interest in all those about them, and thus drawing out sympathy from others, rather than arousing antagonism by demanding too much."

Here is a word of advice that might be passed on with profit to many people:

"I soon found, however, that in order to enjoy life in my new surroundings I should immediately have to enter into the lives of those around me rather than expect them to enter into mine. Even at that early age I had to learn the lesson which most people must learn—that in order to be happy one must forget oneself and enter into the lives of others. I speedily became aware that my friends in New York did not want to hear of Europe or of anything that was not immediately concerned with their own doings."

And again we read:
"At that time the scale of society in New York was small compared to that of the present time. Nowadays if one were to invite all one's friends to a reception, there would be no house in New York large enough to receive them. In the days of which I speak one knew every one in the room at most of the charming dances. If one's home had only a 25-foot frontage it was ample to give a cotillion to one's small coterie of friends, and, too, we knew almost everybody that passed by in a carriage on the avenue, whereas nowadays one can go for blocks and blocks without meeting a single human being that one recognizes."

WHY NEWPORT STAYS EXCLUSIVE.

The great American social world wonders often why Newport, the great social center, continues to remain exclusive.

"I spent the summer after my return from Europe at Newport, visiting the mother of my friend, Henry Sands. It was one of my happiest summers, for there I met old friends, made many new ones, and saw much of my sister, Mrs. Davies, who had just bought a home at that beautiful place. Newport is different from any other fashionable watering place in the world. There is absolutely no hotel life there, for the place is simply a collection of charming homes, from the rose-covered cottage to the stately seaside palace. Poteigners could have no idea of the delightful social life which exists in this place, unless they received an invitation to visit some of the homes of the people who make it famous.

"Whenever the question of building hotels arises, or a group of capitalists start such a project, the scheme is always opposed so actively by the landowners of Newport that up to this day no one has been able to lay the foundation of a large hotel such as makes the life of European watering places what it is.

"Newport is a place to go to meet friends rather than to make friends. Any one living in a hotel at Newport as it is now, and always has been, would feel to such an extent the existence of an insurmountable social barrier that they would have the disagreeable feeling of being left out of things. They soon would doubtless prefer to pass on to places where they could more readily establish a social footing."

"I have seen exquisite frocks, simple and inconspicuous, pass by the American buyers without a glimpse of approval. I asked why such frocks were not brought here, as they often represented the best skill of a great artist. The answer was that it would be useless to take such gowns back to America because there was nothing new about them; they had been worn before, and these buyers went on to explain that America expected of dressmakers that they should create something new, and that they should be able to exploit it; that the American nation is too restless, too suspicious of lack of change, to buy clothes that have only beauty to recommend them.

LAST YEAR'S GOWNS RETAIN STYLES.

It is fine to be able to chronicle that one may wear last year's gowns and not feel very definitely out of the style of things. They tell us that Americans are responsible for the frequent fashion changes in Paris. And one reads of this situation:

"When one lives in that atmosphere for any length of time one finds out that the Americans are responsible for it. In Paris, as in the rest of Europe, where smart society lives, fashions do not change nearly as often as they do here. The well-dressed European, especially the Frenchwoman, wears her clothes for a long time, and therefore insists that they are not made in any extreme fashion.

"It is the American buyers who compel the French dressmakers to offer something new several times a year. This harasses the great dressmakers there, and they admit it, but they want the money. They cannot make in any other channel of enterprise as much money as they can by catering twice a year to this violent demand for new things that the American buyers make."

"Our wise women of fashion are learning to choose a few gowns with care, and to wear them a long time, knowing that they are becoming and that they are effective and artistic.

And that is why the French designer has in her heart a good deal of contempt for the American—except as a money-spender.

"It will be difficult to lay the blame where it belongs in this condition, for many American women despise the sensational caprices in dress and would like to do as every Frenchwoman does: wear a good-looking frock as long as it is in good condition; but the shops and the dressmakers together produce such a bewildering variety of new things that the smart women lose their heads, or, at least, are influenced by the excited demand for change in this country."

Our wise women of fashion are learning to choose a few gowns with care, and to wear them a long time, knowing that they are becoming and that they are effective and artistic.

ARTISTIC DRESSES ORDER OF THE HOUR.

Very artistic gowns have been the order of the hour this season, and at our matinees and afternoon teas the costumes of many of our prominent women have been greatly admired. One of the most attractive gowns of the season was the going-away gown of the bride, Mrs. Chamberlin, who was formerly Miss Inez Kenney.

It was in tones of dark blue, the costume completed by a hat which was a small blue velvet creation, ornamented with a golden bird of paradise.

chiffon gown, lighted with mauve orchids. Mrs. Parrott was gowned in sky blue satin trimmed in silver passementerie.

Miss Rose Nieto, the charming Spanish girl from the city of Mexico, was wonderfully picturesque in pale yellow satin with a corsage bouquet of L. Goodspeed, Miss Sarah W. Horton, brilliant red roses. A bandeau of red, Mrs. Elmer Brinkerhoff, Dr. Pauline Nothmann, Mrs. C. B. Parcell, Miss Eva Powell, Mrs. J. H. Scapham, Mrs. Greenville Shrey, Mrs. Gordon Stolz, satin, with a bodice of white lace, the bodice outlined with rhinestones.

On the closing day of the Long-champs autumn season the gowns of many of the Americans were most noticeable. Mrs. Miller Graham wore a dress of black velvet trimmed in skunk, and a black velvet hat trimmed in aligrette. An ermine muff completed the costume. One of the most effective tailored costumes of the season is worn by Mrs. Mark L. Requist—a handsome gown of broadcloth in the new taupe shades, with a hat in taupe gray, lighted with a touch of gold.

Mrs. W. E. Dargie is looking wonderfully well from her rest in the islands. Her gowns in tones of black are very handsome and beautifully designed.

Mrs. Harry East Miller looks very stunning, indeed, in a costume of black velvet with black furs. And she usually wears her favorite flower, American Beauty roses.

Miss Matilda Brown's costumes are well planned and in becoming color tones, and Mrs. A. C. Posey is the most perfectly gowned of the many Brinkerhoff, Mrs. John Beckwith, Mrs. H. C. Carwell, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. George Collins, Mrs. Charles Cornell, Mrs. A. B. Dabney, Mrs. D. M. Murray, Mrs. James A. Johnson, Mrs. Murray Johnson, Mrs. William Moller, Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. F. L. Goodspeed, Miss Sarah W. Horton, brilliant red roses. A bandeau of red, Mrs. Elmer Brinkerhoff, Dr. Pauline Nothmann, Mrs. C. B. Parcell, Miss Eva Powell, Mrs. J. H. Whittaker, Mrs. W. Gray Wilcox.

The exhibition has proven so great a success that Oakland is justly proud of the Home Club and of its splendid effort in the cause of culture.

MIYA AL KULL KLAN WILL BE HONORED.

Mrs. Frank Carolan and Mrs. William Crocker will entertain in honor of Miya Al Kull Klan, charge d'affaires of the Persian legation at Washington, who is expected to reach here in the near future from Santa Barbara, where he has been lionized by the smart set of the old mission town.

He will also be Mrs. Hearst's guest, at the Hacienda, near Pleasanton.

GREENWAY BALL IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR.

The Greenway ball on Friday evening was the brilliant affair that it promised to be, though the leader, Mr. Edward Greenway, owing to a recent bereavement, was not present. The ball was given in the white and gold room at the Fairmont and the decor-club presidents around the bay. Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith looks very like a Gainsborough picture, for one of her gowns this year is a very handsome reception gown, with a picturesque black velvet hat elaborately trimmed in white ostrich plumes.

Nothing in the world is more subtly amusing than the way men describe gowns. That clever social writer, Frederick Townsend Martin, thus describes the wedding gown of the famous Miss Yznaga:

"The front of the bride's dress was of white satin with point lace, and the back was of satin damask, while the waist was of the same material, with open squares. The sleeves were striped with satin and pearls. The bride also wore in her hair several brilliant diamond stars and over the whole a point lace veil."

MRS. EDWARD REMILLARD IS TO BE HOSTESS.

Mrs. Edward Remillard is to be hostess of the afternoon at the Book Exhibition tomorrow, at the Home Club. A large attendance is expected and Mrs. Remillard will be assisted in receiving the many guests of the afternoon by the following well-known members of the club: Mrs. John Beckwith, Mrs. Edwin
